HOME OF DR. HELMER UGGLA.

Pictured above is the home of Helmer Uggla on Tennis Place. The style is modeled somewhat on the English farm house type, the lines being brought through the avoidance of any ornamentation, and pending on merits alone for effect. The sun parlor sleeping porch extension on the rear gives a sleeping effect of length and tends as well to pull the main ridge line of the house proper.

The stucco is of warm grey color which with the red tone of the tile roof gives harmon y to the emposition as a whole.

The house was designed and erected by the Homes

BOY SCOUTS AID LOAN.

Under the direction of the Queens Boro Council Boy Scouts of America, the scouts of the local troops will aid in securing subscriptions to the Second Liberty Loan. Dates of the campaign will be Oct. 20th to 25th inclusive. To each Scout who secures Liberty Loan Subscriptions from ten or more different homes there will be awarded the War Service Emblem. Only those Scouts who are recorded in good standing and who secure their subscriptions between Oct. 20th and 25th without previous solicitation are eligible to secure War Service recognition of any character.

The United States Government is sending five million bond applications direct to Scout Troops throughout the country. In the first loan campaign by scouts applications were secured for a total of twenty-two million dollars, of which two hundred forty-five thousand dollars belonged to Queens. In the coming campaign it is aimed to double this amount.

The Boy Scouts will work in cooperation with the local committee and subscriptions will be turned in by them to the office of the Cord Meyer Company in order to make one hundred per cent. record for Forest Hills.

Scouts of Forest Hills secured eight thousand dollars for Uncle Sam in the first campaign, and now that they are more familiar with the system a record is looked for.

President Wilson says, Boy Scouts can secure Liberty Loan Subscriptions where a man fails.

WAR RELIEF.

Our Special Field of Usefulness.

"From every quarter comes the question, now that the Surgical Dressings Committee is a National Auxiliary of the American Red Cross—What is its function? How does it differ from a Red Cross Surgical Dressings Committee?

"How simple is the answer, our function is just what it has always been. Three years ago we started to make surgical dressings for the wounded of the Allies, according to the patterns asked for by them. We are going to continue that work, striving ever for greater efficiency. are a staunch ally of our own Red Cross. Their first duty is to care for the American army; our duty is never to fail our Allies, to whom we have given our pledge of sup-This does not mean we cannot work for our own boys; of course we can; when we make dressings for them we use American Red Cross models, just as when we make dressings for the French we make French models. local committees take their instructions solely from our own headquarters, which in turn reports only to the War Council of the Red Cross. Our army and navy have entered the struggle prepared to do their part on land and sea, to help the Allies to the full of their ability; these men are offering their lives, the greatest sacrifice, and with no motive of personal gain; we behind the lines must not be less than they, in our willingness to sacrifice and our bigness of spirit. The words-'our boys'-must mean all the boys of our Allies. Let us in our relief work emulate the mother country, England, whose generous sympathy impels her so often to attend first to the needs of her Allies' wounded, and then her own. Let America lead in service as she moves to victory."

From the Bulletin of the National Surgical Dressings.
