WORLD'S A. B. C.'S

Frederic W. Goudy Speaker at the Last Meeting of the Men's Club

Colonel Kalpaschnikoff, Distinguished Russian, Will Tell of the Real Conditions in his Country at the March Meeting

To disprove the fact that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country," a large audience of his neighbors greeted Frederic W. Goudy, when he spoke before the Men's Club in the social room of the Church-in-the-Gardens, Monday evening, Feb. 28. It was a pleasure to the ladies to be included in the invitations, and they, as well as their husbands, were happy to hear "How the World Learned Its A. B. C.'s" from one who knows about the science and art of typography and who has designed more kinds of type than any one in the world. Lawrence F. Abbott, president of the Men's Club, very graciously introduced the speaker.

Mr. Goudy referred to the strange and wonderful stories in each letter of the alphabet, and how few people can accurately draw the lower case or small letters. "Writing," he said, "was first used 6000 or 7000 B. C." The Egyptians were the first to make the hieroglyphics, the so-called picture writing. Then came the ideographic writing, which expressed abstract ideas by pictures, such as the sun to denote light. This was followed by phonographic pictures, which represented sounds, and then came writing by means of letters. So the alphabet has come through a long evolution from the Egyptians, Phoenicians, early Greeks and finally the Romans, who gave to the world the Roman letters. Mr. Goudy used the stereopticon as an aid to his lecture, which was also made most interesting by his keen sense of humor.

It is Mr. Goudy, who has done so much, perhaps more than any one else, to make the alphabet easily legible and beautiful, through his many type designs, and the regret was expressed by many that he did not show his own designs and tell the story of their making.

New members elected into the Men's Club were: Dr. Edward L. Keyes, E. C. Ketcham, John G. Elliott, Harry A. Brandt and Edwin H. Coleman.

Kalpaschnikoff Will Speak

At the next meeting of the club, on Mar. 21, at the home of Dr. S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr., 20 Groton Street, the speaker will be Colonel Andrew Kalpaschnikoff, whose thrilling tale, "A Prisoner of Trotsky's," apart from being the record of a profoundly moving personal experience, is an important book, because of its new light on events and personalities. He will speak on the real condition in Russia. His talk before the current events chapter of the Women's Club, recently, completely held his hearers. The best part of it is that he is not pessimistic about the outcome of the Russian difficulties.

EX-SOLDIERS ACTIVE

Local Post of American Legion Will Give Dance, Also a Smoker and Are Making a Drive for New Members.

The American Legion, Forest Hills Post No. 630 will give a smoker at the next regular meeting, Monday, Mar. 7, at the Seminole Avenue Club House. Two New York State Legion officials will be present as the speakers of the evening. Hugh Winfield Robertson, assistant state commander and William F. Deegan, state vice-commander.

The post will hold an April Fool's party and dance, April first, in the Masonic Temple. Arrangements are well under way and the success of the affair is a certainty. Every one who attended the Lincoln's birthday dance reported a good time. This is the second big offensive. Help put it over.

The post fills a very unique place in the social life of

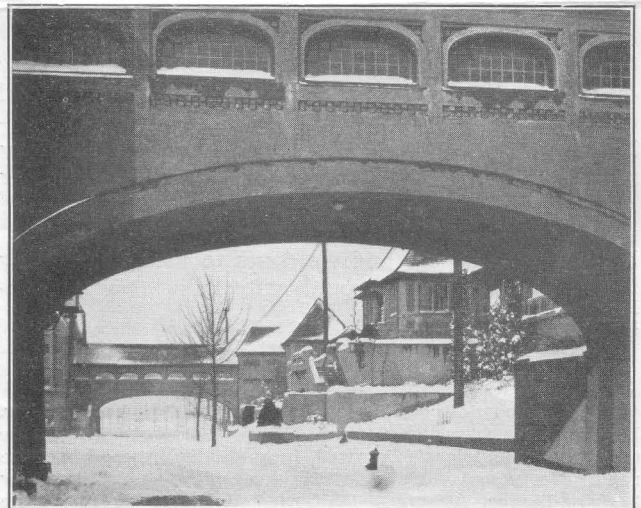

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP DAY

Interesting Program Planned for Women's Club—All Chapters Active.

Mrs. Mary Kingsbury Simkhovitch, director of Greenwich House, will speak before the Women's Club Monday afternoon, Mar. 7, at the Inn, on the subject, "American Citizenship—What Should It Really Mean?" Mrs. Simkhovitch is a convincing speaker, with a clear mind and a definite message. For many years she has been the head of an institution, which has been making American citizens out of the foreigners in that district, and she is qualified to speak on that subject. Miss Josephine Forsythe, soprano, will sing folk songs in costume. Parker Russell will play the violin and Mrs. Robert Stocking will be at the piano.

Chapters

The current readings chapter will meet on Tuesday afternoon, Mar. 8, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Chalmers, 88 Continental Avenue, when Mrs. Harold P. Daniels will review "Potterism," by Rose Macaulay. The philanthropic chapter will meet at the home of the chairman, Mrs. F. R. Getz, 60 Olive Place, Wednesday, 2:30 P. M., Mar. 9. Miss Gertrude Robinson-Smith will speak before the current events chapter Tuesday, 2:30 P. M., Mar. 15, on the subject, "Shall Self-supporting and Business Women Have Recreational Opportunities." This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lyman Beecher Stowe, Union Turnpike and Greenway South. "Modern Composers" will be the subject of the music chapter, when the members meet at the home of Mrs. George C. LeBlanc, 105 Puritan Avenue, Mar. 18, at 2:30 P. M.

OUR FRIENDS IN TIME OF NEED.

A well deserved and charming appreciation of the faithful milkman was written voluntarily by one of the editor's neighbors and is printed below in this number of the BULLETIN. It is true that we take too much for granted the work of those who serve us in capacities which are so vital to our health and happiness.

In the blizzard that gripped our suburb along with all of this section two weeks ago, the boys and men, who bring the daily newspapers to our door steps, did not fail us. Through deep drifts of snow they made their paths and trudged their weary ways, that the world's news might come fresh to our homes.

The boys who deliver our groceries and meats found old sleighs and other unusual ways to deliver our provisions in the snow storm. Great effort was made that we might have not only the necessities but the delicacies as well. To all who made a special effort in the storm, we say "Thank you."

There is another side of the story in the delivery of our meats and vegetables. We are so accustomed to being waited upon, that some of us expect deliveries of our provisions all day long. One family received seven deliveries recently in one day and for such unreasonable demands on the part of some people, all of us pay the price. A definite movement by the storekeepers and residents to insist upon only two deliveries a day, would materially lower the appalling H. C. of L.

YOUR MILKMAN

He left the delivery depot at 2 o'clock in the morning. He made his way along Metropolitan Avenue until he came to a truck hopelessly snowed in and squarely across the road. He turned back to Myrtle Avenue and made his way to Woodhaven Avenue. Half way down it he found he could go no farther and once more turned back. He made a wider circle and reached the Gardens after having dug his horses and wagon out of drifts seven times.

He began his deliveries as cheerfully as though he had not already put in a full day, as hours go, and more than a full day, so far as labor goes. Where he could he supplied people whose regular supply had gone awry; where he couldn't he was as sympathetic as he was regretful. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon his eyes were black with weariness but his smile was quick and merry, and the only fault he found was because of his horses.

"They'll be too tired to know whether they get anything to eat tonight or not, but I've been through storms where they died under me," he said.

He finished his deliveries and started for the stable. Down Greenway South two girls were trudging along the middle of the road. He stopped, helped them up the high step, gave them his own seat and drove them to the station.

"There you are," he said, with another smile, and helped them down. "I'll be around before breakfast tomorrow." And he was.

LOUIS AGASSIZ FUERTES

Bird Artist and Imitator Will Speak on "Songs and Calls of Familiar Birds."

The Gardens is to have a real privilege in hearing Louis Agassiz Fuertes on Mar. 19. The Audubon Society has long been anxious to have him come to Forest Hills because it has always felt that the message Mr. Fuertes has to deliver is one that the Gardens needs. He is among the best-known American bird artists. Four million of his bird paintings have been distributed through the National Audubon Society in the form of illustrated leaflets. He has done many pictures for the National Geographic Magazine in which his article on Falconry appeared recently, and he has illustrated numberless books and articles on ornithological subjects, such as Handbook of Birds of North America; Birds of New York; plates for the report of New York State Game, Forest and Fish Commission and other government reports. He also arranged several of the habitat groups in the Museum of Natural History and the Birds of New York in the State Museum at Albany.

His care and accuracy in drawing and his skill in imitating bird notes have been gained by first-hand study in the field and by extensive experiences in Canada, Mexico and all over this country. Mr. Fuertes will give bird imitations and show stereopticon slides. It is hoped that the Gardens will turn out and give him a fine audience, in the social room of the Church-in-the-Gardens.

MANY COMMUNITY INTERESTS

At the meeting of the Community Council on Feb. 18, the council expressed its gratitude to George C. Meyer for the Boulevard police booth which he so generously gave to the community. The question of the raise in water rates was reported to have been referred to a committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, which committee will investigate the matter and submit a resolution or suggested plan of action to the chamber.

Some interesting and amusing letters were read from residents of Forest Hills expressing their preferences in the matter of a name for Ascan Avenue and their opinions about making one-way streets of the Greenway Terraces. No action was taken about changing the name of Ascan Avenue, and the question of one-way streets was laid on the table on account of vigorous opposition to the proposed change.

The committee appointed to welcome home the returning soldiers reported that $167.32 left from their fund was to be expended in beautifying the surroundings of the soldiers' monument on Flagpole Green.

Hon. Alfred M. Barrett, member of the Public Service Commission, gave an interesting address on the traction situation. It is to Mr. Barrett that the people of Forest Hills owe the fact that commutation and family tickets were not advanced in price when the regular railroad fares were raised. He explained that trolley fares had in several cases been raised rather than to work a greater hardship on the people by allowing the road in question to suspend service entirely. A comparison of trolley rates with Long Island Railroad rates showed that even with increased trolley rates the public would save money by riding on the trolleys wherever feasible, especially in reaching the beaches.

Three delegates, Robert Tappan, Thurlow M. Gordon and Mrs. Louis D. Speir, and three alternates, Mrs. F. M. Knowles, Lyman B. Stowe and Mrs. H. P. Green, were nominated and elected to represent the council at the meetings of the City Parliament of Community Councils.

AUTHORS READING FOR WELLESLEY FUND

Arthur Guiterman, Babette Deutsch and Florence Wilkinson Evans will read from their poems, and Constance Mills Herreshof will play, on Sunday afternoon, Mar. 13, at the home of Mrs. Louis J. Halle, 219 Abingdon Road, Kew Gardens, for the benefit of the Wellesley College Semi-Centennial Fund. Miss Josephine Middleton, 8 Greenway North, is the chairman for Forest Hills, and tickets at one dollar each may be obtained from her.

DRAMATIC MAGAZINE APPEARS

Gardens Players Give February Performance at the Kew Gardens Country Club.

The three things that stood out in the performance of The Gardens Players, given at the Kew Gardens Country Club on the evenings of Feb. 24 and 25 were: the clever magazine From the Housetops—an adventure in journalism on the part of the Players; the very creditable acting by the titled Jewel St. Leger Aldrich, as "Rachel," the French actress, and the charming scenery of the allegory "Hunger," designed and executed by Walter D. Teague, Beechnoll Road and built by the Neighborhood Playhouse.

From the Housetops is to be "issued on occasion" and by The Gardens Players. "hope to aim straight with flowers and wit." It was announced on the first of the eight bright yellow pages, that the magazine "is dedicated to those who have a sense of humor by those who as Players humor the world." The editors of the new periodical are Agnes Gray, Walter Hartwig and Maude Marren and from many of their members they secured contributions, which in the ensemble produced a most glorified theater program, which amused and entertained the readers.

The magazine may be secured at the stationary store or at the Greenway Terraces, at ten cents a copy.

The part of "Rachel," the hopelessly invalidated, emotional French actress, in the tragedy by that name, written by Clarence Stratton, was played convincingly by Mrs. Aldrich, from whom we have come to expect big things. She looked, acted and spoke the part—the hacking cough being consistently a reminder of her failing physique. Nancy Hanks, as "Sarah" her sister, did some good acting.

Mr. Teague's colorful and beautiful scenery for "Hunger," was a satisfying part of the allegory by that name. Probably no amateur dramatic organization ever had scenery of such artistic merit.

FINAL REPORT

The Soldiers' Welcome Home Committee Has Completed Its Work

The soldiers' welcome home committee of the Community Council, which had in charge the erection of the monument on Flagpole Green, feared for a while that a deficit would have to be reported when the time came to report in the BULLETIN a statement of receipts and expenditures.

Thanks, however, to the very generous action of the Home Foundation Homes Company only a nominal sum was charged for re-arranging the shubbery about the monument and laying the new walks. As a result, the statement which follows shows a surplus of $167.32. This, the committee will spend in the spring, as far as it will go, to make such change as additions to the setting for the monument as appear necessary and advisable.

The report follows:

Total contributions	$4,790.87
Interest accrued	70.00
	$4,860.87
Expenses
Printing, postage and stationary	$ 247.58
Floral decorations	380.02
Monument expenses	4,052.95
Dedication	13.00
	$4,693.55
Balance	$ 167.32

POTATOES GOING DOWN

The prices of foodstuff at the local grocers are too high and a number of the residents are determined that lower prices shall prevail. Harvey T. Warren, erstwhile Scoutmaster and one of the shining lights in The Gardens Players, has decided that potatoes at $2.10 a bushel (the local selling price, until Mr. Warren objected), is an unfair price. He has undertaken a splendid public-spirited thing in sending for a carload of potatoes, the Spaulding Rose variety, to be shipped from his farm in Maine, and which will be delivered at the door of any one in Forest Hills, who gives the order, for the price of $3.15 a bag, which is about $1.25 a bushel.

THE INN

The costume dance, given by the Big Sisters of Queensborough on the evening of Washington's birthday, was a financial success. The guests came in costumes, which were very beautiful and which showed great variety of selection. The first prize for the ladies was awarded to Mrs. Hasselriis, who made a beautiful Cleopatra, and whose gown was entirely designed and in greater part made by her husband. George Fuss, who was a guest of A. E. Brion, won the first men's prize as the Rajah, while Mrs. Karrick Collins made a most ludicrous "Mammy" and sauntered away with J. Cassell with the two prizes for ridiculous costumes.

Mrs. Lytle J. Hunter, of the Inn and Gardens, tendered a delightful luncheon party to a few of her friends in the sun parlor on Wednesday last. Another pretty luncheon was that given by Mrs. George Hill of the Inn on Thursday week last. Mrs. Robert Daniels gave an afternoon tea on Monday last to twelve of her friends in the sun parlor. The Inn has been the scene of many dinner parties, both in the sun parlor and the dining room, given by residents of the Gardens, as well as by the guests.

A lively little party was given by Mrs. F. J. Hawley to the children of the Inn on the afternoon of Washington's birthday. The kiddies had a wonderful time, especially while the refreshments were being served in the sun parlor, and for once were allowed all the "whoops" their healthy young lungs could give forth.

Joseph S. Young, of Cambridge, Mass., spent several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wright and their daughter. Mrs. Nelson Franklin, of Denver, spent the holiday with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Franklin. Paul J. Von Roosmalen has just returned to the Inn from an extended business trip to South America. Mrs. Wittkamp, of Philadelphia, spent a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobst. Miss Frances E. Quinn is spending a week with her brother, George Quinn. Mrs. J. N. Hughes, of Huntington, W. Va., is spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Daniels.

Among the recent arrivals are: Mrs. A. T. Whiting, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bobst and son, E. Walton Bobst, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Ralph S. Holbrook, of Toledo, O.; Ridgeway Bishop, of Chicago; Jack Ryan, of London, and E. B. Meyer, of Mount Vernon.

Miss Florence E. Spendiff has left for a several months' trip abroad, to study the steel situation in Europe.

PERSONALS

Walter Hartwig, our president, is now the Executive Director of the New York Drama League. Those who know him are well aware of his uncanny competency in things theatrical, and can fully appreciate his fitness for this high office. The fine standard of The Gardens Players' work is directly due to his unflagging labor for the organization. His enthusiasm and belief in the bright future of the Players have inspired each one of us to do our utmost, so that we were recently ranked in a prominent magazine, as one of the Four Finest Amateur Drama Clubs in the country—From the Housetops.

Dr. and Mrs. James A. Corscaden, Underwood Road, spent a few days recently at Lake Placid enjoying the winter sports.

Mrs. David Latshaw, Summer Street, went to Ithaca two weeks ago to attend the initiation of her daughter Margaret into the Alpha Phi chapter of Cornell University.

Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Christian, 55 Bow Street, have returned from a visit to the many delightful places in Florida.

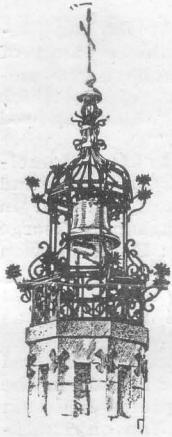

Mrs. Marie Folsensbee, of Schoharie, New York, has been visiting her son and wife, Mrs. and Mrs. M. J. Folsensbee, 55 Bow Street.

On the evening of Feb. 22, in the Town Hall of Bronxville, under the auspices of the D. A. R. chapter there, Mrs. George Smart gave her impersonations of Priscilla and Abigail Adams. Sixteen children, in costume, danced the minuet, as an appropriate feature of the evening's program. Mrs. George C. LeBlanc played the organ.

Lost—Silver and gold cigaret case, bearing initials S. C. Jr. $10 reward when returned to 46 Gardens Apartments, Boulevard 6717.

THE CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

PARTY A SUCCESS

It is very gratifying to note that the record of attendance at the Sunday morning services thus far this season shows nearly a 100 per cent. gain over last year. Each Sunday many new faces are observed in the congregation for which we are glad. In this connection, we desire to emphasize that a cordial invitation is extended to visitors and especially new residents to come and worship with us.

Dr. Latshaw's very scholarly and yet practical sermons are chosen with special reference to present day needs and are proving of great interest and help to all as they are so well adapted to the people of Forest Hills.

For four Sunday evenings beginning with last Sunday and extending to Easter, Dr. Latshaw is conducting what is usually called "The Pastor's Class," particularly appropriate to the Lenten season. These classes are held in the social room at 7:45 o'clock. Last Sunday evening, in spite of the storm, there were present about thirty. His treatment of the subject—"The Christian Church—What it is—its Past—and its Achievements," was of vital interest to all present. Though the meetings are held in cooperation with the Christian Endeavor Society, the attendance is not confined to young people. The older people of the congregation and community are cordially invited to be present.

The Wednesday evening forum on vital national subjects has been well attended and has afforded much information. M. J. Stickel gave us all a new conception of the relationship of employer and employee on Feb. 23, when he dealt with "Why Soul-less Corporations do Welfare Work." J. F. McT.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The children of public schools 3 and 101 contributed a total of $133.14 to the Hoover Relief Fund.

Registration is increasing rapidly in the schools. Two classes have been added since January and it is expected that one more will be needed in the near future. Not enough applications for kindergarten have been received, however, to permit the forming of a class in the new building.

The auditorium in the new school is nearing completion, with the exception of the lighting, which may not be finished for several weeks.

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 25 the teachers of both schools were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Beatrice Wilson. The occasion was the birthday of Mrs. Hoppe, who was remembered with an appropriate gift.

MODEL TOWN

A young high school girl writes from Dothan, Alabama, to the president of the Women's Club, and a boy writes to the president of the Men's Club, each saying: "The seniors of the Dothan High School are preparing a book on 'Where to Live.' We have cited your town as a model. I would appreciate it very much if you would send me some information on the social activities of Forest Hills."

Playground will Benefit from Dance—Mothers' Club Listens to Address on Playground.

Donald Price, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, in speaking before the Mothers' Club, on Feb. 21, in the afternoon, advised having a supervisor of playgrounds and two play leaders for the town, one for the north side and one for the south side of the railroad.

The dance held at the Masonic Temple, on the evening of Feb. 21, in the interest of the playground, was well attended and greatly enjoyed. The juniors danced from eight to ten o'clock and had a particularly happy time. The adults danced from ten o'clock until two and a buffet supper was served at half past eleven. After the supper a most delightful entertainment was given by local professional theatrical people, because of their neighborliness and their interest in the playground. Dr. David Latshaw introduced the performers. Fred Stone and two assistants did a selection from his play "Tip Top." Macklin Arbuckle, in the all-star cast of "The Night Watch," at the Century, told Texas anecdotes and a dog story. The program was greatly appreciated. Julius Tannen, who was unable to be present at the dance, sent $25 as a donation to the fund.

The financial report will be in the next number of the BULLETIN. Any one who has not turned in the receipts from the sale of tickets will please report to Mrs. George A. Douglass, as soon as possible. Donations for the support of the playground will be gratefully received.
