NEW SAGE DEVELOPMENT

Artistic and Comfortable Houses Erected at Moderate Cost

In the development of Tract II in Forest Hills Gardens, the officers of the Sage Foundation Homes Co. felt it incumbent upon themselves to depart somewhat from the character of houses they have erected in other parts of the Gardens, the principal reason being that the cost of construction has reached a point where only a man of substantial income can afford to purchase a house of all-masonry construction. The Homes company, desiring to provide homes for those whose incomes do not justify the purchase of masonry houses, conceived the idea of building a number of small houses of shingle, clapboard, brick and stucco veneer, adhering, however, strictly to the company's principles of the very best type of architecture consistent with the type of building.

The accompanying photographs give some idea of what has been accomplished in Guilford Street, the first street to be developed. Kessel and Stratford Streets are now well under way, and the Homes company believes that charming and artistic as is Guilford Street, some improvements have been accomplished in the later operation. It is a year ago this month that the construction work was begun, and in that period the company has built and is nearing the completion of 47 houses, of which 32 have been sold. On the completed street, i. e., Guilford, every house that has been erected is sold and occupied. The company has strictly adhered to its policy of admitting to ownership only such people as will contribute to a homogeneous community. Like all the rest of the Gardens, Tract II enjoys the very best character of physical improvements.

CHARMING VISTA ON GUILFORD STREET

Following is a list of the purchasers and their occupations. The company has every reason to believe that by the first of October the remaining 15 houses will have all been sold:

William R. Heck, 10058 Stratford Street, Heck Supply Co., New York.
John H. Price, 10049 Stratford Street, Durastone Co., Brooklyn.
Lulu H. Jewett, 10029 Stratford Street.
J. W. Beck, 10023 Stratford Street, Bussmann Manufacturing Co., New York.
Roscoe L. Conklin, 10019 Stratford Street, druggist.
Edmund W. Fitzgerald, 7402 Kessel Street, Hentz & Co., cotton brokers.
William G. Rainbird, 7400 Kessel Street, B. Altman & Co.
Martin E. Corbett, 7520 Kessel Street, cotton goods.
Joseph J. Kennedy, 9958 Guilford Street, salesman.
George S. Barkentin, 9956 Guilford Street, sales manager, Fort Orange Paper Co.

TWO HOUSES ON GUILFORD STREET

Addison Burbank, 9954 Guilford Street, artist.

Arthur Coppinger, 9921 Guilford Street, salesman.
Percy J. Greenough, 9919 Guilford Street, building contractor.
Arthur Coppinger, 9913 Guilford Street, salesman.
Harry C. Lindeman, 10052 Stratford Street, artist.
F. C. LaGrange, 10038 Stratford Street, salesman, Claflin & Co.
Theo. L. Huerlander, Jr., 7500 Kessel Street, contractor.

TENNIS STARS WILL COMPETE

Helen Wills, Olympic and National champion, will defend her United States title in the women's national championship tournament to be held at the West Side Tennis Club all of next week. Miss Mary Browne, Mrs. Franklin I. Mallory, erstwhile champions and many other famous players will compete. Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman will also play in the doubles, partnered by Miss Wills.

Seats may be purchased through Harry Parker, 101 Park Avenue, or during next week at the West Side Club. The demand for seats has been heavier than in former years.

The men's national championship tournament will begin August 25 at the West Side Club, when Spanish, French and Australian stars, as well as William T. Tilden 2d, William M. Johnston, Vincent Richards and other American members of the first ten in ranking will each strive to reach the top.

REMOVE THE WHIRLIGIGS

FOREST HILLS is a beautiful village. We have said so sincerely over and over again in this column. But there is something which mars the landscape in this otherwise charming place. In other parts of the country people always use clothes lines which are taken down when the clothes are dry. Why leave a homely whirligig in the garden seven days in the week, when it is used only one day? It is cumbersome and hard to handle, we admit readily, but as soon as our clothes are dry down comes our whirligig, and it is put into the store-room until the next Monday morning. The result is that the homely thing is as good as new after seven year's use, and—what is much more important—our aesthetic neighbors are not compelled to look at anything as unsightly as it is all through the days of the week. We wish the civic committee of the Women's Club would adopt a new slogan: "Down with the whirligig, except when it is in use."

SAVE THE BIRDS

A LARGE gray cat has been feasting on baby robins and song sparrows in the lot next to our house all of this week. We never could get a place as a pitcher on a ball nine, so our rock has missed the mark every time. Please keep your cats indoors through the morning and evening hours, and feed them red meat, then they will not eat so many baby birds. Also, every cat should wear a bell. Unless we save our birds we shall lose our vegetable and flower gardens, for the birds eat the worms, enemies of the gardens.

PROFESSOR AND MRS. COLLINS HOME

Professor and Mrs. G. Rowland Collins have returned from their wedding trip and will be settled in their new home on Pilgrim Street on Sept. 15. They enjoyed a trip up the Great Lakes and stayed a few days in Canada near Mackinac.

The wedding of Miss Edith Ramsay and Professor Collins took place in the Church-in-the-Gardens on the afternoon of July 16, when the Rev. Alden D. Collins, father of the bride groom, officiated. Miss Ramsay, a daughter of Mrs. Oliver W. Ramsay, Kew Gardens, had as her attendant her sister Betty. Professor Alvin C. Busse, New York University, was best man, and the ushers were Thomas Ramsay and Professor Homer D. Lindgreen, also of New York University faculty.

VISITOR FROM BERKELEY PRAISES FOREST HILLS

I arrived in Berkeley last Saturday from the National Real Estate Convention in Washington by way of various eastern and Canadian cities also Yellowstone Park.

While I am perfectly satisfied with California in general, and Berkeley in particular, I learned a lot while away and returned home humbled in some respects, but filled also with a desire to help make my own town a still more desirable place in which to live. The suburbs of Baltimore, Philadelphia, Forest Hills in New York, and the Nichols Country Club district in Kansas City, were eye openers to me.

A BERKELEY VISITOR

"LIFE IS GREAT"

Helen Keller Finds Cheer in Everything—Her Teacher Also a Wonderful Woman.

If greatness lies in overcoming obstacles, then one of the greatest women of this or any age lives in Seminole Avenue. In whose home the writer was a caller this week. Helen Adams Keller, blind and deaf since she was 19 months old, from an attack of scarlet fever, has been taught by her companion and teacher, Mrs. John A. Macy (Miss Anne M. Sullivan), until she graduated with honors from Radcliffe College in 1904. In her young girlhood, Miss Sarah Fuller taught her to speak intelligibly. She is a widely known lecturer, and her writings include, beside a wonderful autobiography, "Optimism," "The World I Live In," "The Song of the Stone Wall," and "Out of the Dark." Not only by her written word has she helped civilization to reach happier and better heights, but she has spoken much in the interest of the blind, whose affliction lies near her warm heart.

In the comfortable and bookish living room we were received by Miss Keller's gracious teacher, Mrs. Macy, to whom she owes so much and with whom she has lived for 37 years, and while we waited for Miss Keller to appear, Mrs. Macy told us of a $2,000,000 drive for a fund for the blind which will be conducted this fall, and in which Miss Keller and she will be the living appeal in many states, for they will make an extensive speaking tour. "Pathetically primitive are the implements, so to speak, of the education of the blind, and we want to see better typewriters, better books and better everything for these afflicted people," said Mrs. Macy, "and we want to see all work for those who cannot see co-ordinated. This the fund will help to do."

All the time she was talking I was drawn to a portrait of Miss Keller by Munsell, a portrait made when she was about 12 years old, and which shows the soul shining through the sightless eyes and depicts the purpose and grace of her hands tracing the raised letters in the printed book. But no portrait could show the beauty of the expression and the smile of Helen Keller, who soon appeared and whose hand was extended to mine with a cheery "So glad to meet you." With the help of Mrs. Macy, the interpreter, who by the touch of lip and hand asked the hostess the questions which tripped over each other on my own impatient lips, we had an unforgettable experience. Joining in the inspiration and joy of it all was her friend and neighbor, Mr. Robert Marsh, whom "Helen" affectionately called "Bobby." From a fund of knowledge, whose resources seemed limitless, with accurate information of current events, this woman, who has mastered the greatest handicaps, expressed the most enthusiastic interest in the coming Presidential election, in the young people of today, in education and in travel.

Miss Polly Tompkins, the secretary for Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy, is abroad on a vacation. Up on the third floor is a room, equipped with typewriters, the radio, and all of the books needed for the full life of this unusual trio. In the yard are flowers and shrubbery which Miss Keller knows by name and which, in outline and fragrance, are a delight to one who cannot see. A bird-bath brings feathered friends to this garden, and a screened tent furnished with couches and chairs affords a restful place out-of-doors. Why leave Forest Hills in the summer? Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy can find no adequate reason for going.

In speaking recently before the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf, Miss Keller said: "As I stand here in the sunshine of your friendship, I am inclined to think that life is great. Its trials and triumphs are all romance if we will have it so. Youth laughs and sings and is not afraid. The old order is passing away and a new order is coming in and the change will be for the better, for the power of love will bring a new day out of the darkness. Do not despair, although the world is in confusion, politically and otherwise, but lift up your hearts and be of good cheer."

Having visited in her home, which is so full of light and love, faith and happiness, I can fully understand that, in that reported speech, she was expressing her profound conviction.

L. A. S.

THE INN

M. Lawrence Mead, manager, Forest Hills Inn Corporation, returned today from a most delightful two weeks' trip to Bermuda.

Fresh from her Olympic triumphs, Miss Helen Wills, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. C. A. Wills, of Berkeley, Cal., is at the Inn, preparatory to playing in the Women's National Championship which will take place at the West Side Tennis Club on August 11 to 16.

Mrs. Edward H. H. Olds, and children, of Panama Canal Zone, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. I. Smith, of Atlantic City, are spending a few weeks at the Inn.

Mrs. H. S. Susmann, who has been spending the past month with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eaton, of Portland, Maine, has returned to the Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Allen had as their guest, recently, R. D. Force, of Montclair, N. J.

W. A. Dudley has returned after an extended business trip to Los Angeles.

Mrs. John J. Lowe, of Boston, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Guthman.

Franklin M. Devitt, of Montclair, N. J., is spending the month of August at the Inn in the interests of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Fisher, after an extended absence, have returned to the Inn for the winter.

J. M. Johnston, and son, J. B., are spending two weeks in the Green Mountains.

Among recent arrivals at the Inn are: Mrs. Louise Von Dorp; Herbert N. Curtis; J. W. Oliver; Frank R. Clark; Miss Sara W. Holt; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rowe, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cruikshank, all of New York; Mrs. Florence Stillson, and son, Colby, of New Haven; H. J. Rowley, of Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace C. Ayer, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mooney, of Memphis, Tenn.; H. B. Cutting, Jr., of Morristown, N. J.; John P. Boyd, of Roseland, Va., and Mrs. Elisha Sniffen, of Forest Hills.

Mrs. Anna K. Clark, of Cincinnati, is visiting Miss Sally Pierce at the Inn.

Miss Fern Shattuck, of Bristol, Vermont, is visiting her brother, Dr. W. A. Shattuck, who is spending the summer at the Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Power, of Worcester, Mass., were recent guests of Mr. George and Miss Frances Quinn.

Mr. and Mrs. Einno Nilson, of New York and Stockholm, motored down from the Adirondacks on Saturday to spend some time at the Inn.

Mrs. Aspinwall Goodrich is spending a fortnight at Peconic as the guest of Mrs. Gates and later will join the colony at the hotel there for a like period of time.

EXTENSION DEPARTMENT AT KEW-FOREST SCHOOL

The six years of constructive effort by those interested in the Kew-Forest School have gradually developed a policy of community service, which this year has been actively focalized in an extension department.

The idea is by no means a new one, since every business concern which lays any claim to a reputable standing tries to do its part toward the upbuilding of the community welfare. But the principals of the Kew-Forest School have long felt that they had at their disposal an asset which should be of more than passing interest to the general public along educational lines, because of their unusual training and experience in planning and helping to direct the life work of young people.

With this idea as a fundamental principle of service, several new members have been added to the teaching staff of the school. They were selected on account of their peculiar fitness in developing this idea of service as well as for their teaching ability.

James L. Chamberlain, M. A., is a Harvard man who has traveled extensively in Europe; is a reader on the College Entrance Examination Board, and is the new member of the staff who will take charge of the Latin.

Miss Julia M. Colley, educated abroad, with a wonderful record as a teacher of French, strengthens the faculty materially in that field.

Lorin Stuckey, Ph. D., listed in Who's Who in America, takes charge of the history and the extension work.

Mrs. Blanche A. Burd, widely experienced in private and public school work, brings a thorough equipment as teacher of Grades Two and Three.

REMARKABLE ARRAY OF TALENT

Celebrations Association to Give Entertainment in Forest Hills Theatre on August 15

P. T. Barnum made his reputation and his money by advertising "The Greatest Show on Earth." On Aug. 15 at 8:30 p. m. "The Most Remarkable Show ever Given Anywhere"—in the words of T. J. Mitchell—will be presented in the Forest Hills Theatre. "The greatest array of talent ever brought together in the world," is another way Mr. Mitchell describes the entertainment to be billed by the Forest Hills Gardens Celebrations Association. The use of the Forest Hills Theatre is being donated by the management, all of the stars are giving their services and of course G. W. Cunningham, president of the association, Mr. Mitchell, treasurer and Johnny Burke, monologist, are members of the hard working committee who are working early and late for the good of the cause.

A list of the attractions will make a run on the box office of the theatre for the few remaining seats. There will be our neighbors, Fred Stone and his daughters, Dorothy, Paula and Carol, whose dancing and singing are worth more than the price of admission. Van and Schenk, vaudeville artists, also of Forest Hills, are listed. Adelaide and Hughes will present a dancing act. Vincent Lopez will lead his own inimitable orchestra. Johnny Burke, Forest Hills, monologist, who gave "Drafted" on July 4, will give another treat. Nan Halpern, the movie star, who lives in Richmond Hill, will have a number on the program. Dora and Edwin Ford of Forest Hills will give an act entitled "Review." Mable Ford & Co. will appear in dancing and singing act. They too are Forest Hills residents. Jacqueline Logan, a movie star, with the Paramount, is on the program. Betty and Jane Mitchell, graceful and sprightly little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mitchell, will dance. Albert S. Howson, who has been with Sothern and Marlowe, and who has signed up with Belasco for the next three years, also of Forest Hills, is on the program. Hollis Debenney, who sang in the "Blossom Time," will sing.

A very handsome souvenir program is being prepared by the committee and many merchants and others are glad of the opportunity to take space at $100 a page. Pictures of the artists will appear in the program.

The price of the seats will be $5 for the orchestra and loges; gallery seats $3 and $2. Almost all of the house has been sold and at the first sale of seats, an auction held at the Inn on Aug. 2, the first two seats went for $25.

The few seats that remain unsold can be secured at the box office of the theatre.

According to the minutes of the secretary, A. N. Penn, "the purpose of the entertainment is to raise funds for the Celebrations Association for permanent improvements."

Send Contributions to the Treasurer.

The Fourth of July Celebration in Forest Hills Gardens was universally admitted to be the best one ever held here. Not every resident contributed. The treasurer, T. J. Mitchell, announces that a detailed report of the funds will be printed in the next BULLETIN, which will be issued on Sept. 13. All who did not contribute to the celebration are urged to mail checks now to T. J. Mitchell, 100 Puritan Avenue, and that will enable him to close his books.

STANDING OF KEW-FOREST IN COLLEGE BOARDS

Guy M. Catlin, one of the Principals of Kew-Forest, makes the rather startling statement that the Annual Report of the College Entrance Examination Board for 1923 shows that there are only approximately 400 schools in the United States, regardless of size, which rank above Kew Forest in the number of students taking the board's examinations for entrance to the colleges and universities of our country. Of the total of 1628 schools sending students to take these examinations, there are, therefore, approximately 1200 below Kew Forest in this respect.

Another interesting comparison which he points out from this report, shows that the Kew Forest School has made a surprisingly progressive showing, year after year, in the number of its students taking these examinations. Never in its history has there been a single year in which the increase has been less than 25 per cent. There are many schools in the country with 2,000 or more students which do not equal this record.

Several reasons may be given for this remarkable showing, but two of the most important are that the classes are limited to twenty, and the school is one of the few, if not perhaps the only one of any considerable standing, with a continuous program from kindergarten to the college.

CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

A large number of people are attending the 11 o'clock services every Sunday morning, when one takes into consideration the summer weather and counter attractions and the fact that many of the regular attendants are out of town. The Rev. Roy L. Minich, of Christ Church, Woodhaven, is preaching each Sunday morning throughout August. The organist for the summer is H. W. Hall, and the soprano soloist Mrs. Wm. B. Furgerson.

The Rev. C. E. Silcox and family are enjoying a vacation at Spruce Cottage, Silver Bay, Lake George, and can be reached at that address. Mr. Silcox will return to his pulpit the first Sunday in September.

ASK FOR MISS REPPLIER'S BOOKS

Agnes Repplier, essayist, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Club on Nov. 3, when the library committee is in charge of the program. The following books of Miss Repplier are to be found in the Forest Hills Station of the Queens Borough Public Library: "Books of Famous Verse," "Compromises," "In the Dozy Hours," "Points of Friction," and "Varia."

In the last issue of the BULLETIN an appeal was made for a book case, which is very much needed at the Library. No offer of a case was made, so the appeal is repeated, with the hope that there will be a ready response. Any large book case with doors will be gladly accepted by the committee. Please telephone the offer to Mrs. George Smart, Boulevard 6709 W.

The Library Station is open every Monday afternoon from 3 to 5:30 o'clock and on Friday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock. You will find this institution in the old Sales Office at the head of the Green. Miss Florence Loper is the Librarian in charge.

MISS GALLUCCI DIES

Miss Evelyn Gallucci died very unexpectedly at her home, Ascan Avenue and Russell Place, on July 30. She had spent a very happy day with the family at Long Beach and died just before retiring that same night. The funeral service was held on August 2 at Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church, where High Mass was celebrated.

Miss Gallucci had attended the Scudder School in New York, and in June, 1923, graduated from the Castle School at Tarrytown. Last winter she was a student in Columbia Law School. With her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gallucci, and little sister Ernestine, she moved to Forest Hills Gardens in June, 1923. She was a young woman of great promise professionally and of unusual charm personally, so that her death is a distinct loss to her family and friends.

SAINT LUKE'S CHURCH

August Sunday services will be Holy Communion at 8 a. m. and Eucharist and address at 11 a. m. The Rector will officiate. During the month of July the Rev. J. J. D. Hall of Philadelphia acted as priest-in-charge. Regular services during the week will again be held in September.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORS

The Rev. and Mrs. Wm. P. S. Lander and family spent the month of July at Bridgehampton, N. Y. For the remainder of the summer they expect to be in Freeport and Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Baeuchle, Harvest Street, have returned from a two month's tour of California, and the west, visiting the Grand Canyon, Yosemite and Yellowstone Parks and Colorado Springs.

Miss Dorothea Walker, Waterbury, Conn., a senior at Smith College, recently visited Miss Marjorie Hershon, 37 Bow Street.

Miss Marjorie Hirshorn has won a Cornell scholarship, which provides tuition for four years. The Queens County allotment was 6 and there are about 150 for the entire state. Miss Hirshorn had enrolled at Smith, several years ago, but prefers Cornell.

Thurlow M. Gordon, Puritan Avenue, sailed for England, Saturday, July 12, to attend the American Bar Association meetings in London and Paris. He went with an uncle who is on the executive committee of the association and they have planned a trip of six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Moore, Tennis Place, and Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Wilkes sailed for Europe on the Leviathan, July 26.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ketcham and Miss Helena are spending August at Maplewood, N. H.

Miss Janet Clark, of Cambridge, Mass., and Miss Katharine Fletchall, Northampton, have been guests of Miss Helen Smart, Deepdene Road. Miss Smart motored this week to the Clark summer home at Franklin, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Eckman are spending a vacation period at Lake Fennimore and also Elka Park, New York. They will return about August 16.

Mrs. J. A. Stanion, who makes her home with the family of her son, Thomas J. Stanion, Greenway Terraces, is spending a number of weeks with her daughter in Mishiwaka, Ind., near Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartwig, Dartmouth Street, are motoring with friends through New York, into Canada and then home through Vermont, New Hampshire, Mass. and Conn.

Miss Elizabeth Donaldson, who makes her home with the Hartwigs, sailed for Europe on the Lancaster July 3, and will be home Sept. 5, having visited England and France.

Mrs. E. R. Remington, who also makes her home with the Hartwigs, is spending the summer in Hightstown, N. J.

In a flower show held recently in the Library building of Marlborough, N. Y., Mrs. Frederic W. Goudy, formerly of Deepdene Road, won the first prize for her hybrid tea roses.

Mrs. Rockwell and her daughter Miss Evelyn Enola, who have been seriously ill at their home on Deepdene Road, are now convalescing.

The friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bristol are glad to hear the encouraging news about the improvement of little Jean Bristol, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dunklee, of Everett, Mass. are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gorton Marsh. Mr. Dunklee is Mrs. Marsh's brother.

GARDENS KINDERGARTEN

The third year of the Gardens Kindergarten and Primary School will open on Monday, Sept. 15 at St. Luke's Guild Hall, Greenway South near Ascan Ave. Mrs. John Hanson will continue as director assisted by the Misses Dorothy and Edna Sheffield. A First Grade class has been added to the school this year with the competent and experienced aid of the additional teachers. As heretofore transportation will be provided for the scholars living at a distance. For terms and registration blank apply to Mrs. John Hanson, Tennis Apts.
