DESCRIBES FLAPPERISM

Philanthropic Worker Speaks before Women's Club—Zone Prize Awarded.

"Flapperism—Some Causes and Cures" was the subject of the address by Allen T. Burns, noted worker in philanthropy, before the members of the Women's Club, in the Social Room of the Church-in-the-Gardens, on Monday afternoon, Dec. 3. He said that trained women who are married and mothers are dissatisfied because they have nothing to do which brings recognition and this discontent produces flapperism. There are a very few women who can carry on professions after marriage and it takes a genius to win recognition from art, music and writing, after a woman has the cares of a family. For the average married woman who has been educated before marriage, Mr. Burns suggests that her talents and time, not needed by her family, be used in various lines of philanthropy and community service. Mr. Burns was introduced by Mrs. John M. McMillin, chairman of the philanthropic chapter.

The new members reported by Mrs. John A. McFarlan are: Mrs. T. J. Beauchamp, Mrs. J. G. Brobeck, Mrs. Claude R. Fox, Mrs. Vanwy Parry Musil, Mrs. Ralph E. Renaud, Mrs. Thomas J. Snook, Jr., Mrs. Alexander R. Stevens, and Mrs. J. H. Wallis.

Mrs. Robert C. Adams read the report of Mrs. Edgar D. Sealy on motion pictures. The report showed that co-operation between the manager of the Forest Hills Theatre and the patrons means better pictures, for recently at the suggestion of the committee vulgar scenes from pictures were eliminated.

Mrs. Virgil W. Miller reported for the civic committee that a large truck in use means earlier collection of ashes. She read from the Brooklyn Daily Eagle an interview with Mrs. Louis Dean Speir, on the activities of the club, with particular emphasis on the work of the civic committee. The prize for the best kept zone was awarded to Mrs. Harry D. Robbins, chairman of the Continental zone, whose district is the most tidy one in town. Mrs. Anna C. Boyd received the prize for Mrs. Robbins. Dr. Julia W. Perry received honorable mention for the work she had done in cleaning up her zone.

Mrs. John M. McMillin reported that a blanket is needed for a woman in Jamaica and that a very deserving 17-year-old girl needs a cloak. Any one who wishes to donate either one of these articles will please get in touch with Mrs. McMillin or with Mrs. Forry R. Getz, the first vice-president.

The club endorsed Miss Eudora I. Davies for the office of Third Deputy Commissioner of Public Welfare of Queens.

Bernard Kugel, violinist, who will give a recital in Aeolian Hall, Feb. 14, played a number of selections charmingly and with skillful fingering.

Mrs. Getz presided at the meeting, in the absence of Mrs. Speir, president.

At the home of Mrs. Robert C. Adams, on Dec. 18, at 2:30 P. M. the current readings chapter will meet when Mrs. Beatrice D'Emo will review "The Wind Bloweth" by Donn Byrne. Miss Rose Terry will be assistant hostess.

MASONIC DEGREE CONFERRED

Forest Hills Masons met at their Temple on Tuesday evening to confer the first degree upon candidates in waiting. The annual election of officers will take place at the Temple on Tuesday evening, Dec. 18.

DEVELOPMENT OF WHITSON STREET

High-Grade Construction in Twenty-four New Houses—Attractive Planting.

In this issue is shown a view of Whitson Street, the newest finished street in Forest Hills Gardens. The upper end of this street is almost ten years old, but the long block from Puritan Avenue to Ascan Avenue was unpaved and surrounded only by vacant lots until the Forest Hills Gardens Homes Co. purchased the property from the Sage Foundation Homes Co. last year.

Since then the development of the property has proceeded as rapidly as the high-grade character of the construction permitted. The company is owned and managed by Forest Hills residents whose object was to build the right kind of houses and sell them to the right kind of people. The original Sage specifications were adhered to with such improvements as brass hot-water pipes, Ruud instantaneous storage-tank hot-water heaters, set-in bathroom fixtures, Whitehouse kitchen cabinets, and Yale hardware.

The company completed its first group of 12 houses early last summer and all but one have been sold. The planting was done by the local Flower Shop. The sewer was laid and the street paved by the Forest Hills Gardens Homes Co. Among the recent purchasers are: Captain and Mrs. James A. Brook, of Kew Gardens Inn, and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad B. Taylor, of Kew Kensington apartments. Captain Brook went through the war with the Canadians. Mr. Taylor is a certified public accountant.

The new group of 12 houses on the south side of Whitson Street is rapidly approaching completion and sales are now being made for January occupancy. This group is practically a duplicate of the first group, but the end detached houses have ten rooms and four baths with double garages and Baker automatic oil burners. The other houses of this group are semi-detached with light and air on three sides. They contain six and seven rooms, two baths and garage.

A rear service lane eliminates the necessity of garage runways, garbage and ash cans in the front yards. Many residents have commented on the attractive appearance of these groups. The combination of excellent lines with lammie brick and stucco nicely blended, high red tile roofs, deep set back from the street, luxuriant lawns and shrubbery, all combine to make this block one of the most attractive in the Gardens.

THE VILLAGE ATMOSPHERE

AS the village population grows, it will be very important to retain certain traditions and celebrations which emphasize the community life. As there are fewer and fewer bare spaces and more and more houses, we lose the appearance of the country, and it will be necessary to make an effort to keep the village atmosphere.

Fourth of July and Christmas Eve celebrations are customs which have become traditions of Forest Hills and are beautiful and distinctive. On Christmas Eve the singing of carols up and down our streets and the coming of Santa Claus laden with simple gifts for the children bring unforgettable delight to the shut-ins and children. With Christmas only seventeen days away, we must do our Christmas Eve planning quickly, or we shall miss altogether one of the greatest charms and one of the most unifying experiences of our village life.

We must cherish everything that keeps our community life distinctive from the big city. The organizations, the schools, the churches, the Library Station and the celebrations—these all have been built up with much effort and should have the support of old settlers and newcomers, in order that we may continue to have a community of great neighborliness and beautiful friendships.

DEATH OF MRS. MARQUIS

Mrs. Reina Melcher Marquis, wife of Don Marquis, poet, columnist and playwright, died very suddenly last Sunday night at her home, 51 Wendover Road. She was born in Louisville, Ky., and was educated in southern private schools. She was married to Don Marquis, June 8, 1909, in Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. Marquis and a five-year-old daughter Barbara survive her. Mr. Marquis is well known as the former columnist of The Evening Sun and now as the columnist of The Tribune, the author of "The Old Soak" and a poet of distinction. Mrs. Marquis was the author of "The Torch Bearer" and was working on another novel at the time of her death. She also contributed to Today's Magazine.

The services were conducted by Miss Sylvia Loines and Miss Florence Frank, of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Manhattan. Pallbearers, active and honorary, were friends representing literary and theatrical circles.

The Marquis family moved to Forest Hills Gardens a year ago last June and Mrs. Marquis had joined the Women's Club. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Marquis, Barbara and nurse returned from a most enjoyable trip abroad. Mrs. Marquis was a gentle, generous spirit and her family, neighbors and a large number of friends have been greatly enriched by her love and friendship.

QUEENS BOULEVARD IS BEING WIDENED

The actual work of widening and repaving Queens Boulevard is well under way. The contract is being carried out by the Arthur A. Johnson Corporation, and when completed it will be one of the finest boulevards in the world.

The cost of regulating and grading Queens Boulevard will be distributed as follows: The city at large 50 per cent.; Queens Borough 30 per cent. and the local area 20 per cent. Aside from the paving, the estimated cost of the work will be $4,000,000.

All of the proposed 200-foot boulevard, with the exception of the strip now in use, is to be graded under this contract. The present roadway is 40 feet wide.

AMENDMENTS EXPLAINED

Gardens Corporation Agrees on Changes in By-Laws—Residents Approve.

Five by-law amendments were adopted at the October meeting of the members of Gardens Corporation. They were submitted by the directors after ten months' experience with conditions.

The first amendment merely regulates procedure at the meetings of the board by calling for the reference of all matters to the appropriate committees.

The second amendment relieves those property owners whose property abuts on private parks of special dues based on their park's area.

There are five small private parks in the middle of the blocks. These are owned by the abutting property owners. A special clause in Declaration No. 3 subjects the parks to a special private park maintenance charge of 7½ mills divided among the abutting property owners, in addition to the regular 2 mills on their land. The original by-laws required of these property owners dues based both on their regular 2 mills and also on their special private park maintenance charge; and all but two of these property owners have paid such dues for this year.

But the private park owners disliked the arrangement and the administration of this special private park fund has caused difficulties altogether disproportionate to the amount involved. The special park fund even when so doubled is inadequate to pay the taxes and upkeep of these private parks. To lessen this difficulty the amendment leaves the private park maintenance charge as it was originally in Declaration No. 3, which so far as collected will continue to be expended on these private parks. But the amendment cuts out the dues of like amount. The corporation hereafter can keep up these private parks only so far as the special park fund will go. Arrangements are in contemplation to turn over the management of these little private parks wholly to the owners.

The third amendment, to insure continuity in the administration, provides that the Board of Directors shall divide itself by lot to serve one, two and three years. In this way it will be certain that each year's board will have some experienced members.

The fourth amendment provides that membership shall not be inherited. In other words, if an owner sells his property within a current year, the new owner must pay requisite dues to become a member. Membership applies to the individual, not the property. Of course, the legal maintenance tax can be collected only once, and that from the owner on the first day of the year.

The fifth amendment provides for the time when the new 4-mill agreement between Gardens Corporation and its members shall come into effect. That agreement was approved at the October meeting, but will come into effect only when two-thirds have signed. The agreement makes the maintenance charge 4 mills instead of the 2 mills specified in Declaration No. 3. The fifth by-law amendment provides that by whatever amount the agreement increases a member's maintenance charge his membership dues shall be decreased in the same amount. Heretofore each member has paid 2 mills for maintenance under Declaration No. 3 and 2 mills for membership dues—4 mills in all. After the agreement becomes effective each member who signs for his land will pay 4 mills for maintenance charge and nothing for dues. If he sells his land, the new owner will have to pay thereafter annually the 4 mills maintenance tax. Such new owners may become members in the corporation on being elected to membership.

The plan is aimed to relieve the directors of a continuous drive for new members in the constantly changing population and to reduce the administrative expense of collections, and to automatically assure the full payments from a constantly increasing number of new owners. Furthermore it may afford a means of keeping any possible undesirable element in the future incoming population from dominating the membership and so controlling the corporation.

All the directors individually and already about 90 members have signed and signature cards are now being sent out to all remaining members.

It is urged that every member of Gardens Corporation reading this article give serious consideration to the proposition, and that all requests for information or any questions be forwarded to the committee in charge.

HORACE H. HUME,

Chairman of Committee on Four Mills.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bert Williamson, 19 Fairway Close, sailed Nov. 27 on the Berengaria for a trip abroad. Margaret Williamson is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wylie, 41 Shorthill Road, while Mr. and Mrs. Williamson are away.

Mrs. David Latshaw, Greenway Terraces, spent the Thanksgiving week end with her daughter Margaret, at Cornell. Miss Latshaw is president of the Women's Student Government Association at Cornell.

Letters from Edward H. Mays, Slocum Crescent, who is now in Japan, describe the scenes of desolation in Yokohama. Buildings with steel construction have survived the earthquake better than any others.

J. Gorton Marsh recently went to Chicago to attend the 90th anniversary of the church of which the Marshes were former workers.

Mrs. Ella Burns is visiting at the home of her brother, J. Gorton Marsh, 68 Greenway North.

Harold Treu, attending Cornell, spent Thanksgiving at the home of his parents, Euclid Street.

Elizabeth Boettiger, a student at Vassar, enjoyed Thanksgiving at her home on De Koven Street.

Mrs. C. B. Nelcamp, Puritan Avenue, spent Thanksgiving day with her foster daughter, Mrs. Charles Jeffries, in Covington, Ky., and, returning home that night, was in the wreck of the Gotham Limited in Gould's Tunnel near Steubenville, O., in which no one was seriously hurt.

ALDERMAN MURTHA PROMISES TO HELP

"Whatever I can do to help you in securing an appropriation for the purchase of a library site in Forest Hills, I shall be glad to do," said alderman-elect James M. Murtha, at a meeting of the library committees of the various organizations, held at the home of Mrs. George Smart, 45 Deepdene Road, Nov. 30. Mr. Murtha has proceeded to fulfill his promise by arranging to have the question put on the calendar of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. When the question comes to the Board of Aldermen, he will be the floor champion of our case.

Miss Florence Loper, the librarian of the Forest Hills Library Station, was also present and made a full report on membership, circulation and new books in the local library. The membership is nearly 900, the circulation is increasing normally and well and many of the new and best books are brought to this station. Mrs. Lawrence F. Abbott will try to get the Forest Hills Theatre to throw on the screen a notice to encourage the use of the local library, on the part of all citizens of Forest Hills, particularly the children.

There were 17 people present, representing six organizations of the village. The committees are determined to get an appropriation for a library site while central and desirable locations are available.

HAVE YOU SAMPLED IT?

The Bess Alyce Candy, in several delicious varieties, is made by Miss Elizabeth Tyler and is for sale at 1 Continental Avenue. Miss Tyler has generously contributed her candy to be sold at the benefit parties for the Jamaica Hospital, and from her donations a considerable sum has been realized. Many grateful residents will buy their Christmas candy from Miss Tyler.

THE TASTER.

A DELIGHT TO THE EYE

Upon returning from a trip abroad recently, a resident exclaimed over the attractiveness of the Gardens Gift Shop and said she had seen no lovelier shop anywhere.

THE INN

The Thanksgiving Eve supper dance at the Inn was held on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 28, in the ballroom and sunporch. About 100 attended the party, which was a complete success. The management is receiving numerous requests for such entertainments.

The Thanksgiving dinner was attended by approximately 400 guests, and the highest praise has been received from numerous guests and their friends on the elaborate and very excellent menu served.

Preparations for the social activities for the approaching holidays are well under way and many table reservations have already been received. In order to assure success the management hopes for, it has been decided in arranging the New Year's Eve supper dance, that preparation for only 200 will be considered, and it is therefore advisable that all those planning to participate place their reservations at the earliest possible moment.

The waiting list for accommodations is increasing daily, and at this time the Inn is catering to a capacity house.

On the evening of Nov. 30 one of the most delightful sorority dances given this season was held in the ballroom of the Inn with about 75 young couples participating.

Mrs. E. L. Morgan, a recent arrival at the Inn, entertained about ten of her friends on the evening of Dec. 1 at dinner in the sunporch.

On Saturday evening, Dec. 1, E. B. Meyer gave a very delightful dinner party in the sunporch, celebrating the birthday of his fiancée, Miss Rauchfuss.

George Easton has returned to his apartment after a three weeks' hunting trip.

Among the recent arrivals are C. C. Smith, Portland, Oregon; Mrs. C. N. McArthur; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. LaSpada and little daughter, Los Angeles; Mrs. M. M. Wessman and daughter, West Milford, N. J.; Stephen J. Burke; Mr. and Mrs. Fordyce Knapp and nephew, Elmira, N. Y.

Others registered include Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Eaton, Hanover, N. H.; J. B. Johnson, New York; Miss Katherine L. Murphy, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Peters, Babylon, L. I.; Paul Goehring of Milan, Italy, and Abbott F. Pond, New York.

S. B. DONNELLY SPEAKS AT MEN'S CLUB

The November meeting of the Men's Club was held Friday night, Nov. 23, at the home of Judge George H. Boyce, 62 Greenway North, with Samuel B. Donnelly, secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association, as the speaker. Mr. Donnelly, in the course of his remarks, showed that solution of the housing shortage was not in sight, but he thinks the peak has been reached. He refuted the statement that as wages have gone up the men have done less work; he says it is impossible to get work out of a dissatisfied man. He complimented Forest Hills on having the best construction in its houses of any place he has visited. The following members were elected: J. D. Wilkinson, 133 Greenway North; Dr. A. Raymond Stevens, Slocum Crescent; Sterrett Thompson, Ingram Street; Earl Hines, Puritan Avenue; Henry Hof, 254 Greenway North.

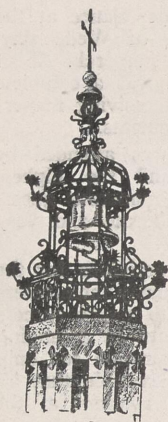

SHIPMAN-ROTH WEDDING

Miss Catherine Campbell Shipman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Shipman, 110 Audley Street, Kew Gardens, was married on the evening of Nov. 23, at the Church-in-the-Gardens, to Elmer Vernon Roth, 45 Summer Street. The Rev. C. E. Silcox was the officiating clergyman. After the ceremony, supper was served and a reception held at the Kew Gardens Inn.

Miss Helen Gordon, New York, was maid of honor; Miss Betty Nixon, New York, Miss Julia Welles, Englewood, New Jersey; Miss Margaret Yepsen and Miss Ethel Davis, Kew, were bridesmaids. Mr. Roth's best man was Edward Roth, and his ushers, Albert McConnell, 78 Greenway Terraces, a cousin of the bride, Dallas Hokon, James Thorpe and Carol Hasbrouck.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Roth will live at the Kew Kensington.

THE CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

The seating capacity of the Church-in-the-Gardens is being taxed these Sundays, and while this is highly gratifying, the situation is one which is necessitating the consideration of the future needs of the church. The extension of the church towards Burns Street, providing for the inclusion of two transepts and the dropping back of the chancel, was considered as a possibility when the Community House was planned, such an enlargement would add about 200 sittings to the church, and might perhaps be the solution of the question. But in the meantime, something can be done perhaps by increasing the number of services and adding to the staff instead of to the edifice.

When the Junior Choir made its appearance on Sunday, Nov. 28, at one of the regular church services, it was necessary to provide additional seats. The choir sang beautifully, showing careful training, and made a most happy impression. There have been many other applications for the choir, and it is now planned to enlarge it beyond the number of 25 as originally intended. The choir also sang at the Union Thanksgiving Service at the First Presbyterian Church. Tomorrow morning at the Junior Congregation, the choir will sing "Lift up your heads," an Advent anthem by Hopkins. It is also rehearsing now for a Vesper Candlelight service on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 23, when a very beautiful and unusual service is being planned.

Tomorrow morning the minister will preach at 9:30 at the Junior Church on "The King's Outriders" and at 11, at the usual church service, on "Preparing the Way," both Advent sermons. At the latter service, the choir will sing an anthem by Maunder and Mrs. Furgerson, Dvorak's beautiful Bible-song entitled "God is my Shepherd."

Four children were baptized on Nov. 28, and 11 new members received on Dec. 2, four of the latter on confession of faith.

Tentative plans for the Sunday before Christmas include the Junior Church at 9:30, the children of the primary and beginners' departments joining in that service, the usual service at 11 with special musical numbers under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Scammell, a Vesper Candlelight service at 5 P. M. at which the Junior Choir will sing beautiful carols, and a special evening service at which the minister will give "The Story of the Christmas Tree." A watch-night service is being planned for Monday evening, Dec. 31, of which further notice will be given later.

The growth of the Church School is necessitating the securing of several new teachers. A very substantial offering was taken up in the school last Sunday for the rebuilding of churches destroyed in Japan during the earthquake.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Services in the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow will be as follows: 10 o'clock, Bible School; 11 o'clock, public worship, when Mr. Sheppard will preach the second of the December series on the general subject "God as the Supreme Discovery." His topic will be "By Way of a Book." At the 8 o'clock evening service, he will speak on "Are the Captains of Industry Religious Men?" This subject, like the one last Sunday evening, was suggested to the minister for discussion.

The first meeting of the Girl Scouts of Forest Hills was held at the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening. After a discussion of Scout work, the girls were taken to the Club House on Seminole Ave. for their drill. The troop will meet at 7:30 next Monday evening in the Social Room of the Presbyterian Church.

The Men's Fellowship Club held the first winter meeting and smoker in the Social Room of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening; about 40 or 50 men were present. The music of the evening was provided by the Forest Hills Fellowship-craft Orchestra; and an entertainer was present from New York. Mr. Sheppard spoke of the aims of the club as being those that entered into good fellowship, in order that the men of the community might have opportunities of getting to know each other, and so provide the elements of community good will. The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 4. An elaborate program has already been prepared; and an effort will be made to double the number of men as members of the club. Refreshments, provided by the ladies, were served.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Have you an Elm tree in front of your home? If so, will you write to the Davy Tree Company, 501 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. C., asking it to send its representative to inspect the tree and advise you what attention the tree needs and the probable cost for preserving its life and beauty. No matter what the cost might be (and it won't be much), the tree is worth one hundred times as much in the appearance it adds to the Community and to your home. Its beauty will be a delight to your eyes; its shade will give comfort to you and your children; the birds will rest in its branches, yea, even build a home where they will raise their young as they did in the Elm in front of 83 Greenway North; the falling snow will cling to its twigs and limbs and give you a glimpse of Fairyland and your Spirit—but—the O. of S. T. is a practical man and therefore hastens to add—write today,—write at once—do it now!

J. B. R., Overseer of Street Trees.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT

And still our village grows! Another shop has recently been added to our thriving business section, and this time it is Anna's Millinery Shoppe. The location is Windsor Place, one block east of Continental Avenue. It is interesting to know that the proprietor is the wife of Walter Szandrowsky, who has for several years conducted a high-class shoe repairing shop in that block. As his patrons learned of his wife's ability to repair hats as skillfully as he repairs shoes, work piled in upon her until it became necessary to open a shop of her own.

Anna's Millinery Shoppe specializes in hats made to order, either from all new materials or from your last year's bonnet. She was for nine years a trimmer in one of the smartest New York shops and knows her art right well, having already many satisfied patrons in the village.
