SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Criterion Male Quartette and Mrs. Anna Caldwell Boyd Furnish Program

Last Entertainment to be by Home Talent on March Tenth--Women's Club Activities

The Criterion quartette made a decided hit in the Women's Club entertainment course, held in the Church-in-the-Gardens, on the evening of Feb. 9. The quartette consists of John Young, tenor; Horatio Rench, tenor; George Reardon, baritone, and Donald Chalmers, basso. Their voices are individually beautiful and the solo work was delightful. "The Trumpeter" by Dix, was sung by Donald Chalmers, with understanding, in a rich, well trained bass voice. The solos by Mr. Reardon and Mr. Rench were equally beautiful and well received. A wide variety of songs was used in the solo and quartette pieces, the latter ranging from "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan to "De Sandman" by Protheroe. The singers were most generous with encores.

Mrs. Anna Caldwell Boyd, of Greenway Terraces, a dramatic reader of native ability, splendid training and broad experience, added much to the program. For her first two numbers Mrs. Boyd read "The Highwayman" by Alfred Noyes and "In a Royal Garden," with pleasing effect. The reading of parts of "Saul" by Robert Browning was done with artistic effect and spiritual insight and was appreciated by the large audience.

The March Entertainment

The next entertainment in the course will be given by Judge Charles F. Moore, Mrs. George Smart, Mrs. George C. LeBlanc, organist, and the chorus of the Women's Club, on the evening of March 10, in the Church-in-the-Gardens. Judge Moore will lecture on "Dollars and Sense," in a thoughtful and suggestive way and brightened by a rich vein of humor. Mrs. Smart will interpret the life of the Pilgrims through an impersonation of Priscilla, entitled "What 1620 Says to 1920." All members who sing are urged to report to Mrs. Charles H. Scammell, at once.

The Work of the Chapters

The music chapter will meet at the home of Mrs. George C. LeBlanc, 105 Puritan Avenue, on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 25, at 2:30 o'clock. The subject of study will be the work of MacDowell and Harriett Ware. Mrs. John Mears, of Brooklyn will sing.

The current readings chapter will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 24 at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. H. Mays, 175 Slocum Crescent. Mrs. S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr., will review Leonard Merrick's "Conrad in Quest of His Youth." On Tuesday, March 9, at the same hour, the chapter will meet at the home of Mrs. Lee Galloway, 250 Greenway South. Mrs. Eugene Schoen will discuss Bernard Shaw's "Heart Break House." On Wednesday, March 24, the members of the current readings chapter will attend a matinee performance of Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln." Any member of the Women's Club wishing to go will kindly notify, at once, Mrs. Albert Morton Gray, Mrs. John A. McFarlan or Mrs. George J. Simmons, as tickets must be purchased in advance.

Thrift for Women

At the regular meeting of the club, on Monday, March 1, at 2 o'clock, at the Inn, the subject of the afternoon will be "Thrift for Women," when Miss Florence Spencer, chief of the women's division of the government loan organization of the Second Federal Reserve District, will speak on that subject. There will also be interesting reports by members of the club on research work on the cost of a woman's outfit.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL

The List of Officers and Committees a Representative One The Advisory Board

The meeting of the Community Council held last night in the Church-in-the-Gardens in the interest of the extermination of mosquitoes, when Mrs. Elizabeth H. Wright was the speaker, will be reported in the next issue of the BULLETIN.

The president, George Smart, announces the following members of the governing board, advisory board and chairmen of committees. The school committee is the only one the entire membership of which is announced because the president wishes suggestions from the members of the advisory board as to the personnel of committees. The recently adopted constitution of the council states that the advisory board shall consist "of the official head and one other member of each of the various civic organizations and such other social organizations or agencies as may be invited by the council, which operate in the district of the community council. This advisory board shall recommend to the president the establishment and personnel of necessary committees, which if acceptable to him, shall then be appointed by him."

Governing board: president, George Smart; vice-president, Thomas B. Paton, Jr.; secretary, Miss Beatrice Fox; treasurer, George B. Everitt, and Dr. J. A. Corscaden and A. Alfred Renshaw.

Advisory board: Men's Club, Rowland H. Smith and Guyon L. C. Earle; Women's Club, Mrs. Albert M. Gray and Mrs. Lee Galloway; Mothers' Club, Mrs. George A. Douglass and Mrs. Harold P. Daniels; Audubon Society, Mrs. George Smart and Fritz Hagens, and Gardens Players, Walter Hartwig.

Committees: Playground and recreation, Dr. J. A. Corscaden; school, Guyon L. C. Earle, Mrs. George A. Douglass, Mrs. Harold P. Daniels, Major Clarence A. Perry and Lyman Beecher Stowe; postal service, John M. Demarest; anti-mosquito, S. W. Eckman; program, the governing board; fire, Ferd Neumer; railroad, A. Treu; taxes, Thurlow M. Gordon; welfare, north side, Rev. A. Sheppard; welfare, south side, Robert C. Adams; police, Dr. Eugene Christian; health, Dr. William F. Saybolt; soldiers' memorial, Lyman Beecher Stowe, and streets, Robert Marsh.

AN ORGANIZED COMMUNITY.

AFTER reading the editorial in the BULLETIN of January 24, Miss Mary E. Knevels was moved to write the following:

If the end of education is learning to live together, as the editorial in the BULLETIN of January 24 stated, then its highest development must be found wherever people are gathered into colonies of villages, towns or cities, finding out by rubbing shoulders and adjusting angles, that what is best for all must necessarily be good for each one. Thus the well rounded out community represents the finest opportunity for a post graduate course in common life. The hermit was the ideal man of the middle ages, but it is difficult to make anything but a community ideal of our Lord's picture of heaven as a house of many mansions and the further description in the Book of Revelations of the Celestial City.

The Gardens show what organization will do in getting things done. It is safe to say that if all the settlements in Queens were as well organized, there is practically nothing in the way of improvement of living conditions that could not be accomplished. Take the schools alone, and imagine what a combined pressure from all our various communities on the Board of Education would mean. Over organization may well be perilous but this the Community Council will prevent. Meanwhile, if the Gardens is to keep its leadership, it must support the Council with more than mere assent. A Council is not self acting. The open-minded, intelligent citizen is the motive power behind every organization.

A very real question before us now is how, having launched our own Council, are we to work for larger ends, when the adjoining villages are not organized? And if there must be some missionary work done, how are we to go about it? It may be said that this is not our business, but the larger interests represented by the County, are a common concern, and every citizen of the Gardens is a missionary whether he wants to be one or not.

The order and beauty of his own surroundings must make the citizen want to go beyond his own premises with the same ideal and what he has found good he wants to extend. Organization is no cure all, but a community without a machine to work with does not get very far.

M. E. KNEVELS.

THE GARDENS PLAYERS

The Two Night Performances to Capacity Houses at Kew Country Club a Great Success

The Kew Gardens Country Club auditorium was filled on the evenings of Feb. 17 and 18 when the Gardens Players put on their mid-winter plays. Friends, relatives and neighbors were all there in large numbers to generously applaud the local dramatic talent; but the Players need no special indulgence from any one, for the shows were even of higher grade than the autumn performance. Honest, painstaking work, plus native talent and plus Walter Hartwig's management, put on a production which makes the residents of the Gardens proud. Not only those who are listed in the casts and the producers deserve praise, but those who paint scenery, who arrange stage settings and the many others who in an inconspicuous way carry out the details, which in the end spell success. The townspeople are already looking forward with keen expectation to the next performance.

"Garlic," the first play put on, was a delightful comedy, written by Walter Claypoole, of the Gardens, produced by himself and with a successful leading lady in the person of Mrs. Claypoole, whose acting always deserves commendation. Irving H. Hare, the burglar, and Agnes K. Gray, the other woman, played their parts convincingly. The bed room scene was most attractive.

Dr. S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr., as Max the bachelor, in "An Episode," from "The Affairs of Anatol," acted easily and naturally. His friend, Anatol, the love sick, woman-hating bachelor, played by Owen Rossiter, and Bianca, the circus rider, played by Maida Birmingham, both were well made up and acted well.

The hit of the evening was made by Beatrice Wilson, who, after three rehearsals, took the part of Tama, the Japanese wife in "The String of Samisen," by Rita Wellman. Because of the "flu," Violet Eder could not take that part, and at the last moment Miss Wilson stepped in, mastered a long speaking part and with the well-modulated voice of a gentle, secluded Japanese woman, with easy, graceful manners and with acting which rose to the height of dramatic power deserved the universal praise which she received. Edward Swazey, the blind teacher of the Samisen, and Nina Cutter, as Hatsu the maid, both did their parts remarkably well. Channing Hare, as Arinori Okubo, and Frederick Smith, the rich merchant husband of Tama, deserve commendation. The Japanese scenery planned and decorated by Walter D. Teague and his helpers was beautiful.

"Cooks and Cardinals," by Lindau, originally produced by the "47 Workshop" of Harvard University and produced this week by Walter Hartwig, was a comical thing, mighty well done. Mr. Hartwig played the part of the French chef like a professional. "Mrs. Connelly," the whiskey soaked, Irish cook of the Cardinal, was side-splitting in make-up, manner and brogue, and was played by Bertha Mandell, who always lives her part. Kathleen (Lolita Cordon), the pretty assistant to the cook and her lover, Teddy (Thomas Mayer), carried their parts charmingly, while Father Anselm (Bryan Dorr), and Cardinal Wheeler (Vincent Engelbach), seemed to be to the priesthood born.

THE INN

Lt. C. Knudsen, U. S. A., is spending a week's vacation at the Inn with his friends before leaving for South America.

Mrs. A. P. Saunders of Clinton, New York, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. S. Brownell, for a few days last week.

Mrs. Hunt Jones with her small son, Hunt Jones, Jr. of Louisville, Ky., spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Samuel Castleman of the Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Eakins of Denver, Colorado, are among the new arrivals at the Inn and it is hoped will make their future home in Forest Hills.

Miss Margaret Temple of San Francisco, Cal., was recently entertained by Mrs. Cecil Beattie of the Inn.

Lt. Col. Thomas N. Gimperling, U. S. A., was the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. Nixon of the Inn for a few days last week.

Among the new members of the Inn family are Mrs. F. C. Moerenhaut of Florida, Miss F. E. Spendiff of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mrs. J. W. Whitney of New York and Mr. Farnes of London, England, whose name was incorrectly given in our last BULLETIN.

The dinner given on Saturday evening last in the Sun Parlor of the Inn by Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Saybolt of Greenway Terrace, was one of the most attractive parties ever held here. Mrs. Saybolt made a charming hostess to twenty of her friends, principally comprising out of town people who were delighted with Forest Hills and our hotel. The favors were appropriate to St. Valentine Day, with a beautiful table setting of pink roses. The guests enjoyed the dancing after a hearty dinner and finished the evening's enjoyment at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Saybolt for a midnight feast.

Miss Laura Lee wishes to announce that new members for the dancing class will be welcomed at any time and proportionately charged for the remainder of the season. Many seem to be under the impression that unless the children join at the beginning of the season, they cannot be entered during the season without losing the previous lessons in the current course.

NEWS FROM THE PLAYLEADER

Girl Scouts

The girl scouts are holding well attended meetings each Friday at five in the afternoon at public school 101. Edith Walker of Forest Hills, "a big girl scout," who has been one for several years and has attended the scout camp for three summers, told yesterday of her experiences there. Edith Walker will train the "Brownies," the little girls who are ten years old and not quite old enough to be girl scouts.

Valentine Party

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 14, girls and boys gathered at the Seminole Avenue Club House for a valentine party. Games typical of the day were played.

Swimming Class

Each Saturday morning finds a group of girls ready to go to New York for swimming, and much progress has been evidenced from week to week, for only one lesson has been postponed on account of weather conditions. Feb. 28 Miss Fox is to take the girls from the pool to the Museum of Natural History, arriving at the Museum at 2:15 in the afternoon. Any boys or girls who would like to join the expedition at the Museum will be most welcome.

Gym Classes

New apparatus is soon to be put into the Seminole Avenue Club House, such as horizontal bar and traveling rings. Miss Fox urges the boys and girls to join the classes and to learn new stunts.

CHILD STUDY

Dr. A. A. Berle, author and lecturer, will speak at the Anderson Galleries, Park Avenue and 59th Street, on Friday mornings, at 11 o'clock, in March. The subject will be "Child Training in the Home." The price for the course will be $3.00, single admission $1.00.

DR. D. G. LATSHAW SPEAKS

The Women's Guild of the Church-in-the-Gardens Makes Many Plans—The Community House

Dr. D. G. Latshaw spoke before the Women's Guild of the Church-in-the-Gardens at the home of Mrs. Rowland H. Smith, on Friday afternoon, Feb. 13. "This church puts no emphasis upon creed, but rather upon practical Christian living," he said, "and because of the liberal faith in religious matters it is safe to trust to it the building and the supervision of a Community House. All over the world today and all over this country, there are new ideals of democracy and service; this church must apply these ideals to this community in terms of a Community House. This must not only be a house of religious education but also of recreation, of simple, wholesome recreation, with gymnasium and all that. There must also be an auditorium, stage, etc. This house must be a center of community life and spirit, where all young and old persons of the community may meet upon the common ground of democracy and service, as an expression of the modern Christian point of view."

Mrs. S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr., and Mrs. George A. Douglass were assistant hostesses.

The Guild is planning to do its bit for the new Community House. On March 17, there will be an apron sale at the Inn and candies will also be sold. Aprons of various fancy kinds will be sold as well as aprons for hard service. On April 12 there will be an entertainment in the Church when Winifred Marshall, a gifted and highly trained soprano, will give a recital. Miss Marshall sings songs of different periods and nations and wears the different costumes which are appropriate for the songs.

The next meeting of the Guild will be held at the home of Mrs. J. G. Elliott, 29 Winter Street, on March 12, from ten in the morning until four in the afternoon. Mrs. E. C. Ketcham and Mrs. Henry W. Hillman will assist Mrs. Elliott.

MOTHERS' CLUB

Famous Exponent of the Organic School Speaks Here—Public Schools Are Crowded.

Miss Marietta Johnson, of Fairhope, Alabama, the head of the Organic School, spoke before the Mothers' Club at public school 101 on Monday afternoon, Feb. 16. During the summer Miss Johnson conducts a normal school along these lines of an experimental educational venture at the Edgewood school, Greenwich, Conn.

Miss Johnson said in part: "The standardized educational methods make a child memorize rather than think; he works for a prize outside of himself rather than the self satisfaction from within which comes from a task well done. Working for a prize makes him insincere. When he fails to get the prize the feeling of guilt undermines character and leads him to self consciousness and fear. The present methods of education violate the order of nervous activity; carpentry, moulding and the like should come before reading. Why continue in the present ways when results are unsatisfactory? Organic education studies the needs of an organism and supplies those needs. Children all need encouragement, not destructive criticism. Body sturdiness is the first great thing; mental hunger must be satisfied and the spiritual needs of joy, emotional sincerity and fearlessness must be satisfied."

It was announced at the club that shortly the kindergarten will hold its sessions in the social room of the Church-in-the-Gardens in order to relieve a crowded condition in the schools. These crowded conditions had to be met with the only possible relief. With the kindergarten meeting in the church it will be possible to have five classes in the schools (including the kindergarten) on full time, instead of two, as at present. All mothers were urged to use their influence to have the new school building 3 finished as soon as possible.

The school committee of the Community Council, headed by Guyon L. C. Earle, was urged to work for the completion of that building. Also because of very crowded conditions in every room in the schools and since the public school 3 is such a great distance from the Gardens, it is the plan to put forth every effort to secure a new building in the Gardens. In one room now there are three grades.

THE CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

Tomorrow at 11 A. M. the Rev. James A. Whitmore will occupy the pulpit.

Following last week's very interesting discussion of the theme, "America's Genius for Assimilation," led by Mr. John S. Stapleton, and the equally interesting consideration of this week's topic, "The Question of Language," led by Mr. J. Floyd McTyler, the group studying "Christian Americanization" is looking forward with keen interest to next Thursday night, when the subject, "Arrested Assimilation," will be taken up. A committee of four is co-operating with Mrs. Burton in carrying out the program for these increasingly popular Thursday evening discussions of this vital subject. The dinner and social hour preceding the discussion is a delightful feature of the plan.

It is not too late to join this group, as the best of the course is still to come.

Mrs. Burton, telephone Forest Hills 6518, will gladly give full particulars.

Rev. Henry F. Cope, D.D., of Chicago, Secretary of the Religious Education Association, will be the speaker on Sunday morning, Feb. 29. Dr. Cope is known as the apostle of religious education in this country. His lectures at the University of Chicago and elsewhere have attracted wide attention, and his books on the subject are regarded as the last authority. The pulpit supply committee is to be congratulated on having secured Dr. Cope, and it is hoped that the people of the community will realize and appreciate the opportunity afforded them.

PERSONALS

Miss Grace Marren, of Burns Street, has been spending a few weeks in Florida and at Palm Beach had the pleasure of meeting many friends from Forest Hills.

Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Kendrick, of 205 Puritan Avenue, announce the birth of a son, David Stewart Kendrick, on Jan. 28, 1920.

Mrs. Lyman Beecher Stowe, of Greenway South and Union Turnpike, will give a tea to the members of the Women's Club on the afternoon of Feb. 27, from 3.30 to 6.30, to meet Mrs. Louis Dean Speir, a new member of the club.

Mrs. Louis Dean Speir, of 64 Short Hill Road, has been at home to her friends on Tuesdays in February. The last tea will be given on the afternoon of Feb. 24.

Miss Mary Fairchild, principal of the public schools of Forest Hills, was married on Feb. 6 to Henry C. Hoppe of New York.

Doctor and Mrs. Eugene Christian have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter Lorita to Mr. Myron James Folensbee on Thursday, Mar. 4, at a quarter before nine o'clock, in the Church-in-the-Gardens.

BOY SCOUTS CELEBRATE

Father and Son Party a Fine Climax to "Good-Turn-Week"

Troop 2 was very active during the tenth anniversary of "Good-Turn-Week" of the boy scouts, starting Sunday, Feb. 8. On that day the troop attended in a body the morning services of the Church-in-the-Gardens and listened to a stirring talk by Rev. George Irving, the special speaker for the occasion.

The week's climax came on Friday evening, Feb. 13, which was far from being an unlucky day for the scouts, who gave a party to their fathers in the social room of the church. Each scout was instructed to bring his father or adopt one for the evening if necessary. E. H. Mays, the chairman of the local scout committee, presided and introduced Lawrence F. Abbott, of the Gardens, as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Abbott told some fishing experiences that showed the value of scout training and gave some good advice to both fathers and scouts. The scout master, Harvey T. Warren, then awarded compasses, as prizes, to Tyler Sweeney, Fred Adams and Allen Smart, the winners in the knot-tying and fire-making competitions.

Each patrol then gave a show, written and produced by the boys themselves and much future talent for the Gardens Players was exhibited. The first patrol's play showed the difference the advent of scouting has made in the life of boys. The second patrol held a debate, on the respective merits of Hoover and Wood, as presidential candidates. A straw vote taken at the end of the debate was in favor of Gen. Wood. The third patrol put on a stirring melodrama, entitled, "Spot the Cop," based on the efficiency (?) of our local police force.

After a cracker eating contest, in which the fathers came out victorious, but thirsty, all the scouts were blindfolded and then endeavored to identify their fathers. Later the process was reversed and the saying that "a wise parent knows his own child" was proved true. If you do not believe ye scribe ask "Doc." Sweeney! The real party then began with cakes and sandwiches brought by the scouts, ice cream, kindly donated by the Inn management, and cocoa made by Mrs. Warren and a committee of mothers. Altogether it was a very enjoyable evening and all the fathers were warned to get in training for a father and son hike to take place in the spring—should that season ever arrive.

HARVEY T. WARREN,
Scoutmaster.
