SAINT SWITHIN LOSES

The People of Forest Hills and the Gardens Merrily Celebrate July Fourth

Saint Swithin made merry on the Fourth. The trouble and the joy of it all was that sometimes he wasn't quite sure whether or not to break up the party. But while he was making up his mind the townspeople on both sides of the track managed to squeeze in a joyous celebration of the day.

HON. NEWTON W. GILBERT

Leadon skies greeted the early rising and lusty voiced Town Criers in the Gardens. It was 9:30 before the goodly-sized crowd had heeded their summons and appeared on the Green for the flag-raising. The local post of the American Legion paraded up the Green in the wake of the Twenty-second Regiment Engineers' Band and then raised the flag. A salute to the flag, the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by all, and a few remarks by S. W. Eckman, president of the celebrations association, preceded the inspiring invocation pronounced by the Rev. Mr. C. E. Silcox of the Church-in-the-Gardens. Patriotic songs sung by the Choral Club concluded the ceremonies.

The Legion and the Engineers' band marched to the Seminole Avenue Clubhouse, on the gaily decorated lawn of which assembled citizens of the North Side awaited the flag-raising. This took place immediately, and was followed by the singing of the National Anthem by all and a band concert by the United States Naval Band. Then Virgil W. Miller, president of the Forest Hills Association, introduced the Hon. Newton W. Gilbert, former Vice-Governor of the Philippines, who made a short and cogent address. After explaining the principles underlying the Declaration of Independence, Governor Gilbert reminded his audience that they must support them in the time of peace as well as in the more emotional periods of war. He went on to show how these principles applied to the immigration law and the movement for a larger merchant marine. He concluded with a thrilling tale of the time when the American fleet went around the world.

The downpour which followed Governor Gilbert's address broke up the children's games which had been going on in the Square under the auspices of the Gardens celebrations association. The usual colorful children's races had been followed by a fat man's race in which one of the obese gentlemen bit the dust (name withheld), and a father-and-son relay race in which the S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr. & Son aggregation nosed out the Ward J. MacNeal & Son outfit in a thrilling finish, the senior members of the teams running at anchor. While the Square was fast becoming a lake, Harvey Warren, who had unexpectedly joined his old comrades the Criers, equally unexpectedly gave an entertainment for the townsfolk crowded under the cloisters of the Inn.

By 2:30 everybody had been able to get home and return to see the baseball games under a sun that was successfully making up for lost time. On the playground in the Gardens, the Outs, altogether energetically captained by Karrick Collins, fell before the hard-clouting Inns to a tune of 6 to 5, while on Seminole Avenue the townsmen of the North Side were being buried by the Legionaries under a score of 17 to 6. The children's games and the golf match of the Forest Hills Association were postponed until the following Saturday, July 7, when winners of the golf match were as follows: long drive and approach, Richard Clinchy, and putting, P. D. Wright.

At 4 o'clock the people of the Gardens assembled under the trees of Olivia Park to watch the Chalif dancers. The entire program was excellent, but especially lovely seemed "Pierrette," danced by Miss Marion Swords, "Music Hath Charms" by Miss Margeret Montgomery and Edward Chalif, and "Pastoral Symphony" by seven of the dancers.

In the evening the North Siders concluded the day with a

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING ON 1924 BUDGET

Through the indefatigable efforts of the school committee of Forest Hills, Mrs. Harold P. Daniels, chairman, the Board of Education of the City of New York has placed a new school building for Public School 101 in the Gardens on the 1924 budget. Due to the overcrowded conditions of the building and adjacent portable of Public School 3, the presidents of various organizations of the community signed a petition asking that the congestion be relieved by placing the new building on the budget for a year hence.

The new building will be erected on Block 10, the present site of the playground and portable building, and it will seat 735 scholars, who will be divided in eight grades and a kindergarten. There will be seventeen large class rooms, a large auditorium, work shop, domestic science room and gymnasium. This is just the sort of a building that the committee has been working to secure for the last eight years.

In the meantime the public school in Kew Gardens is to be built on a site between the cemetery and the railroad. It will relieve the congestion at Public School 3 and will resemble the new Elmhurst grammar school building which is just being completed, except that, at the request of the Mothers' Clubs of Kew Gardens and Forest Hills, it will contain a gymnasium on the third floor.

FINISH (IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE) OF THE FAT MAN'S RACE, STATION SQUARE, JULY 4

West Side Tennis Stadium

Work is rapidly progressing on the new tennis stadium at the West Side Tennis Club. Except for the concrete stadium built at Wimbledon, the Forest Hills amphitheatre will be the first of its kind in the tennis world. The seating capacity will be about 13,000 and by adding to the structure the capacity can be increased to 21,000. It will be 195 feet long and 145 feet wide and will cost $150,000. Three turf courts will be enclosed.

The stadium will have 8,000 seats completed for the women's international tennis matches, which will take place on Aug. 10 and 11. These will be followed by the national matches on the week of the thirteenth. From the list of entries for these contests, it is reasonable to expect a large sale of seats. Miss Helen Wills, who has a good chance of becoming national champion, although only 17 years old, is a guest at the Inn.

It is announced that, Aug. 10, Johnston and Tilden will play an exhibition match before the women's international matches, to dedicate the partly completed new stadium, which will be entirely finished for the Davis cup matches.

four-reel educational film on the Seminole Avenue Clubhouse grounds, a band concert, and dancing on the tennis courts, while the Gardeners held a dance in the festively beflagged and lighted Square. A feature of the dance in the Square was an impromptu parade of children with sparklers, led by F. Garcia Monteiro.

On the whole Saint Swithin lost out, although he may claim that he had to withdraw "for strategic reasons." C. A. S.

SAFEGUARDING THE FUTURE

THE officers of the Gardens Corporation have accomplished so much in the short time in which the organization has functioned that the residents are very much indebted to them. The announcement in another column that the lots of the De Bevoise farm will be sold with the understanding that the same architectural supervision will prevail as over the lots sold in the Vanderveer section is a proof that the surrounding property will have houses which will be harmonious with the rest of the village. This is not only of aesthetic value, but financial as well, and every property owner feels grateful to those who have conducted the negotiations.

The placing of the new school building for the Gardens on the 1924 budget is another matter for congratulation, as it is also another way to safeguard the future. The neighbors express their gratitude to those who have worked for eight years for this happy culmination of their dreams and efforts.

DEATH OF S. S. FREEMAN

Stanton Sholes Freeman, treasurer and general manager of Port Henry Iron Ore Co., with general offices in New York and mines at Mineville, N. Y., died in Forest Hills on July 14 after a long illness. Funeral services were held at Campbell's Funeral Church, New York, on the afternoon of July 16. Rev. C. E. Silcox, of the Church-in-the-Gardens, officiated.

Mr. Freeman was born in Columbus, Ohio, in 1874, and graduated from the Ohio State University in 1898. For a number of years he was superintendent and general manager of the Carbon Furnace Co., Parryville, Pa., until he became connected with the Port Henry Iron Ore Co. in 1916. He was a past president of the Ohio State University Association of New York, a member of the Ohio Society, the Engineers' Club and the American Iron and Steel Institute.

In 1919 Mr. Freeman purchased the George Sherwood Eddy house, corner of Union Turnpike and Greenway North, and it was the home of the Freeman family until this past winter, when Mr. Freeman went south in search of health. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Miss Orra.

RECENT SALES

William H. Batcheller has sold the house which he has built at 49 Slocum Crescent to Mrs. Alexander Leith, of Baltimore. Mrs. Leith will move into the house about Sept. 1. She has two daughters, one a graduate of Wellesley this June and another a recent graduate of Vassar, who will return from a trip abroad in September and will join their mother in the new home.

Mrs. Lorenzo Uilo has sold her house on Continental Avenue to Franklin W. Osburn, of Brooklyn. George B. Wells has sold his house, 12 Park End Place, to George Shortmeier, of Kew Gardens, who is New York branch manager for the American Bosch Magneto Corporation. These two sales have been made by Louis P. McGahie.

John Nemeth, Jr., has sold his house, 326 Burns Street, to John C. Mee. The house of Ralph B. Smith, 199 Puritan Avenue, has been sold to Caroline M. Hills. These two sales have been made through the Forest Hills Associates, Inc.

FOREST HILLS AS SEEN BY A DANISH ARTIST

HEDVIG COLLIN, the Danish painter, well known from her portrait art here and abroad and loved by the children of Denmark for her dainty drawings in the fairy tales and the folksong books of the nation, has seen the Gardens through fairy glasses and describes what she sees in an article in The Copenhagen Politiken, as follows:

"Forest Hills Gardens stands by itself, even as an oasis in the desert. Every European who visits New York must see Forest Hills and—live at The Inn.

"The Inn, a delightful country retreat, fourteen minutes' ride from New York by swift electric train, is a hostelry de luxe, inexpensive, lovely, quiet, cozy. It is in this little town of Forest Hills Gardens, that is indeed a garden, abounding in blossoming trees, flowering shrubs and velvet lawns, with an overwhelming variety and wealth of many, many flowers.

"The tiny Flower Shop which is built to the hotel is almost hidden beneath a veil of vines and clusters of white and purple blossoms, the wonder of a flower shop.

"The railway station, built right together with the hotel by means of colonnades, is a master's work, upon which have been lavished decorative stairways, wrought-iron lanterns, balconies and terraces, embellished with vines, fountains of roses, drooping foliage and hanging gardens. Imagine amidst this complex a midget police station, friendly and fairylike, lighted by green lanterns. It would seem indeed lovely to be taken to the station in Forest Hills.

"Vis a vis stands—like a rhyme in a lovely poem—a counterpart, a kiosk for taxicabs, but lit by red lanterns, and holding hands with these two little pavilions is a fountain, and bent over the crystal clear water that borrows color from the iridescence of the tile-lined bowl, stands an emerald tree in silent contemplation of much loveliness.

"All the town is spotless town, lovely lines harmonizing with planting and gardening—a fairy spot but fourteen minutes from the tumult of the Metropolis. Peace reigns everywhere.

"And here is a cinema that is frequented by all nice people, and pleasing chairs, the only movie in the world where one feels this sense of comfort.

"At the hotel gathers evenings a cosmopolitan multitude, enjoying bridge, music and the good-fellowship of the spirit of Forest Hills.

"Saturday evening they dance in the ball room, lovely women with handsome men. And Sunday evenings come concerts by excellent artists.

"Near the hotel is a riding academy, and Sunday mornings the plaza in front of the hotel echoes the sounds of many horses and the joyous shouts of horsemen.

"Close by are the matchless lawn tennis courts of the West Side Tennis Club where are fought the world championship matches. Then all Forest Hills is bustling tumult and activity—motors and visitors.

"Summer days Greek interpretative dances are given in Olivia Park, in which the woodland fairies are said to yet dwell, while the people of the little town fill the grassy slopes and look on.

"The town has its own edification committee that keeps alive the spirit of loveliness which is also mutual helpfulness, and maintains architectural and horticultural standards.

"Aye, forget not Forest Hills Gardens. 'Tis the place to live when business takes one to New York, and the European visitor will indeed find the Inn a hospitable and delightful home."

GENEROSITY OF RESIDENT APPRECIATED

The earnestness and work of the officers and committeemen of Gardens Corporation made such a deep impression on Mr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Jonas, Greenway North, when they heard the reports at the May meeting that Mr. Jonas mailed a check for $250 to Lawrence F. Abbott, president. Mr. Jonas requested that the money be used as the officers deemed for the best interests of the community, but suggested that it might well be used for tree preservation. Consequently when Mr. Abbott thanked Mr. Jonas for the gift he wrote that he thought the money might well be turned over to Mrs. Louis D. Speir, chairman of the parks division, and that it could then be used on tree protection under the direction of John B. Reimer. It is probable that this will be the procedure.

FROM THE RUHR TO DUMB-BELLS

Public School 3 Holds Commencement Before Large Crowd.

"When a private citizen fails to pay a debt, the sheriff seizes his property, sells it, and pays the creditor; in occupying the Ruhr, France is using the only sheriff she knows—her army," declared Charles Hammond, speaking for the affirmative in the opening speech of a debate which was the principal feature of the graduating exercises of Public School 3, held in the school auditorium on the very warm night of June 21. The subject of the debate was, "Resolved: That the French are justified in occupying the Ruhr Valley," and it was presided over by Alan Drummond. Norman Sawyer, the first speaker for the negative, declared that Germany was forced to sign the reparations agreement and is unable to pay. The other speakers for the negative were Helen Weld and James Hagens, while Frank Wilkes and Elaine Braun assisted Hammond on the affirmative. Hagens' concluding speech for the negative, in which he summarized the arguments and said that the occupation is a dangerous act of violence, received prolonged applause from the audience which packed the hall. The judges, Miss Bertha Mandell, Rev. W. P. S. Lander of St. Luke's Church and Rev. Albert Sheppard of the Presbyterian Church, awarded the victory to the negative by a unanimous vote.

A varied program followed, consisting of instrumental music, songs, recitations, dances, a dumb-bell drill, the singing of the class song—words by Virginia Wheeler—and the awarding of certificates, prizes and diplomas by Rev. Albert Sheppard, in the absence of Edward Mandel, district superintendent.

In his address to the graduates the Rev. Mr. Lander emphasized the importance of "the three I's"—life, love and loyalty. The prizes awarded were as follows: $5 from the Mothers' Club of the school to Raymond Schramm for having the best school spirit; $5 from the civic committee of the Women's Club to Harford Getz, of the 7A class, for showing the most civic pride; $2.50 to Millard Briggs, also 7A, as a second civic prize, also from the Women's Club; a medal presented on behalf of the school by Miss Bertha Mandell to Norman Sawyer for making the best recitation; a book to Helen Weld for being the second best elocutionist; an album, which will remain at the school, to Elaine Braun, Violet Guy, Maxwell Ford, Charles Hammond and Howard Schmolze for being the winning music team of the district; $20 to Randall Williams for being the best cook in the district (this money is to be spent on the domestic science room and is a gift from Mrs. Henry Morgenthau); a ribbon to Mildred Vanderveer for being the best seamstress; honorable mention to Randall Williams, Virginia Wheeler and Virtrice Scott in the latter event; a prize to Robert Hurley for being the school printer, and a medal to Caspar Hasselriis for being the best carpenter.

The following received certificates of merit of divers and sundry varieties: Annette Easton, Marion Goodwin, Grace McCaffrey, Mildred Vanderveer, Helen Weld, Virginia Wheeler, Randall Williams, Violet Guy, Robert Hurley, Frank Maguiniss, Howard Schmolze, Raymond Schramm and Edward Schwiebert. Besides those heretofore mentioned, the following received diplomas: Frances Rigby, Sherwood Barnes, Rhoderic Blackhurst, Vinal Coburn, Paul Hershon, Cyrus Kaiser, Benjamin Kendrick, John Mara, Harold Wilson. The class officers were as follows: President, Charles Hammond; Vice-President, Alan Drummond; Secretary, Virtrice Scott; Treasurer, Raymond Schramm.

A prize of $100 obtained by the school for buying the most savings stamps in the district has been spent on two parts of a frieze for the school. The graduating class presented to the school a picture of Henry Hudson entering New York.

JAMAICA HOSPITAL

"Serving the Fourth Ward" is the slogan which now appears on the Jamaica Hospital ambulance. The Fourth Ward—for those who may be just a bit hazy as to its exact meaning—is the political district in Queens County, well known to all old residents, which includes the following communities: Forest Hills, Kew Gardens, Woodhaven, Richmond Hill, Morris Park, Howard Beach, Jamaica, Hollis, Queens, St. Albans, Springfield, Laurelton and Rosedale.

OFFICERS ACTIVE

Gardens Corporation Membership Committee Works Hard in Interest of Community.

Horace Hume, acting chairman of the membership committee of the Gardens Corporation, has prepared some interesting figures as to the growth of the membership during the past few weeks, which has resulted in 456 out of the 553 property owners being enrolled on the books of the corporation. This is approximately 82 per cent.

Out of the 97 owners who have not joined Gardens Corporation by paying their dues, 15 live in the Gardens. Out of that 15, those who have paid neither maintenance nor dues number 10, divided as follows: 4 who have some dispute over the correct area of their property and who will pay when this matter is adjusted; 2 who are new to the Gardens and have not yet actually taken up their residence here; 1 who is out of town for the summer, and 3 who have promised to pay.

Out of the 5 who have paid their maintenance but not their dues, 2 have promised to pay, and 3 have so far refused. The 82 owners who are not residents of the Gardens are located all over the United States, some as far west as San Francisco.

Mr. Hume is still at work trying to make the record as near 100 per cent as possible.

De Bevoise Farm Development Agrees to Restrictions.

During the past month a committee of Gardens Corporation has been in conference with the owners of the De Bevoise farm tract, along Ascan Avenue to Metropolitan Avenue, with a view to arranging for the same architectural supervision by Gardens Corporation as that maintained over the Vanderveer tract, at the end of Continental Avenue. On July 24 the owner of the land signed an agreement to have the same architectural supervision by Gardens Corporation as that maintained over the other property. A letter has also been prepared to be sent to the purchasers of restricted property at the Vanderveer auction, welcoming them to the neighborhood, giving them information as to the restrictions and showing them how to be guided by them.

KEW-FOREST CLOSES THE YEAR

The closing exercises of Kew-Forest School took place on the morning of Friday, June 8. Miss Ruth Robbins Stillman of the graduating class, in a brief address, welcomed the guests.

Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Renshaw, another member of the Class of '23, spoke most entertainingly on "The Girl of Today." Miss Margaret Abbott Jones, valedictorian, after an interesting discourse on "Literature and Life," expressed her appreciation of the benefits she had derived from Kew-Forest, urged the undergraduates to be loyal to the school's best traditions.

Diplomas were awarded to Margaret Abbott Jones, Dorothy Elizabeth Renshaw and Ruth Robbins Stillman. Scholarship and athletic honors were then awarded. Highest scholarship honors went to Nedra Gullette among the girls and to Alexander Keyes of the boys. The class scholarship banner was won by grade six.

The following were awarded scholarship honors for attaining an average of 90 per cent or over for the year: Margaret Jones, Elizabeth Knight, Mildred Millar, Cicely Kershaw, Elizabeth Mitchell, Catherine Lewerth, Alice Collins, Dorothy Ketcham, Ellsworth Davenport, Marjorie Knox, Helen Samson, Laurose Schulze-Berge, Philip Earl, Barbara Sincerbeaux, Muriel Millar, Anna Psaki, Martha Ann Russum, George Shortmeier, Anna Lawson Philbin and Joan Cuddihy. Honorable mention to Helen Rountree.

Musical numbers from Brahms, Schubert, Bohm, Grieg and Czibulka, rendered by the pupils, showed their excellent training.

After the singing of Kew-Forest songs, light refreshments were served in the various class rooms.

On Tuesday, June 19, the 12 members of grade seven took the eighth grade regents' examination in arithmetic. All were successful, the rating ranging from 78 to 99 per cent.

Highest honors went to Richard Earl and Fred Haggerston with a rating of 99 per cent each.

In June a number of students of the Kew-Forest School tried the College Board examinations for entrance to college. In general, colleges require 15 points of credit for full admission. Of the third year high school pupils of the Kew-Forest School, Geraldine Dow has passed off 12½ points, and Janet McConnell 9 points. Five other students of the third year have received from 5 to 7 points credit. Of the second year high school pupils, Ruth Davies and Collier Elliott have 6 points each. Three others have 2 points each.

CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

The union services held during July in the Church-in-the-Gardens have been so well supported that it has been decided to continue the services during August. Rev. Albert Sheppard, of the co-operating Presbyterian Church, will preach on the second Sunday in August, when Rev. C. E. Silcox fills an engagement of long standing in his former parish at Newport, R. I. On all other Sundays, however, Mr. Silcox will both preach and conduct the service. On July 29 his theme will be "Shifting Responsibility," while on August 5 he will speak on "The Life of Christ," with particular reference to the new book by Giovanni Papini, which has already gone through so many editions both in England and in America, in addition to having enormous sales in Italy and France.

With the opening of the Church School in the fall, it is the hope of the minister to institute a Junior Congregation, to meet on Sunday morning, immediately prior to the work of the regular classes. It is intended to utilize as far as possible, in the conduct of the service, the boys and girls themselves, while the minister will be in charge, and preach from the pulpit a brief sermon to them. The hymns, prayers and lessons from the scripture will be chosen with particular reference to their problems and desires. For the themes of his sermons to the juniors during September and October, the minister will probably go to some of the great stories in literature, including Hawthorne's "The Marble Faun," Balzac's "The Wild Ass's Skin," Tolstoi's "The Forged Coupon," etc.

That there is the greatest interest in the program of religious education in the Church-in-the-Gardens was evidenced by the attendance on Children's Day, when the capacity of the church was taxed to the utmost and some of the people who came could not find seats. The service on that occasion was entitled "God's Care," and over one hundred children took part on the program with great credit to themselves and made the occasion one of unforgettable beauty and joy.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORS

Lyla Rose Wilson, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bird Wilson, was born on July 12 at their residence, 134 Puritan Avenue. By a happy coincidence the eighth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson was on the same day.

Dr. B. B. Kendrick, Puritan Avenue, has accepted a position on the faculty of the State College for Women of North Carolina, at Greensboro. Dr. Kendrick and his family will move to the new home in September.

Dr. W. E. Weld and family, who have been living in the Kendrick home for the last year, will move to Englewood, N. J.

Harpers is announcing this week that the anonymous author of "West of the Water Tower" is none other than Homer Croy, of Standish Road. This announcement is no surprise to the neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Croy, who have been rejoicing with the Croys over the sale of the book. The story is to be filmed with Glenn Hunter, who from time to time lives at the Inn, as the star. The production of the picture will begin on August 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Bush, Seminole Avenue, returned three weeks ago from a motor trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, to entertain guests from Los Angeles, Cal., M. T. Owens and his sister, Mrs. M. E. Lombard.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin K. Hanks, Slocum Crescent, have returned from a trip to California.

Miss Helen Hoeft, Greenway Terraces, will spend the next few weeks at East Aurora, New York.

Miss Mary E. Taylor, of the Forest Hills Gardens Homes Co., is enjoying a Schroon Lake holiday.

Frederick E. Smith is recuperating from a recent illness at Steuben Sanitarium, Hornell, New York.

Walter Hartwig is enthusiastic over camp life at Lake Memphremagog, Canada. He returned home via the 47 Workshop at Harvard, and from this visit the Gardens Players will profit next season.

Mrs. Jewel St. Leger Aldrich sails from England on the Berengaria on Aug. 4, "for the only place in the world," she writes, "Forest Hills, U. S. A."

Mrs. Walter Claypoole and daughters are spending the summer at Boothbay Harbor, Maine.

Miss Bertha Mandell, Jewell Street, is taking her final courses at Columbia preparatory to receiving her Ph.D. degree.

Mrs. Alexander Greene is entertaining her mother from Texarkana, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Greene, Corinne and Mrs. Greene's mother will enjoy a holiday in Canada.

THE INN

Unusually heavy business is prevailing at the Inn, partly due to the arrival of the different teams practicing now for the final matches for the Davis cup. Many of the guests find entertainment watching with great interest the playing of the Australian team practicing on the courts, which they pronounce excellent.

Besides Miss Helen Wills, the California star, and her mother, the following members of the Australian team are registered: Captain J. O. Anderson, J. B. Hawkes, R. Schlesinger and J. D. McGinnis.

Participants in the women's championship will be entertained at a dance at the Inn on Wednesday, August 15, and great interest is being shown by all the prominent stars in the affair, which promises to be the gala event of the summer season at the Inn.

Private parties in the sunporch continue as usual, and the Inn is doing an extremely heavy business in the dining rooms for luncheons and dinners, particularly on Saturday nights when the semi-formal dances take place.

Many of the guests are availing themselves of the privileges of the Hillcrest Golf Club, extended to the guests of the Inn by the management of the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McCleneghan have returned to the Inn after an extended trip in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Reed are again at the Inn after a delightful sojourn in Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stout, after an extended honeymoon trip in Europe, have taken accommodations at the Inn. Their numerous friends were most generously remembered while they were away with souvenirs from various points of interest which they visited, and numbers of parties have been given them since their return.

While a number of permanent guests are away on vacation trips, their accommodations have been taken up at once by new arrivals, some of whom are: Mr. and Mrs. L. Guethman and daughter Dorothy, and her governess; W. W. Worthington, Washington, D. C.; F. W. McKee, Pittsburgh; Leonard Buck, Forest Hills; H. Brinkerhoff MacCully, Garden City; Mr. and Mrs. George Mohler, Pittsburgh.

E. J. Oakshott, a former resident of the Inn, has returned with Mrs. Oakshott.

After a very enjoyable vacation, Miss Margaret Williams is again at the Inn.

Other arrivals include Warner Ells, New York; Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Collis and family, Ormond Beach, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hood and daughter; W. H. Stewart, Montreal; W. F. Price, Chicago; Galvin Gould, New York; L. J. Sauter, Chicago.

Recent guests also include W. E. Badinghouse, Mrs. H. Woodworth, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Compass, New York; Miss Rene Fletcher, and Miss Constance Rorke; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Hodgkins and daughter, Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Daniels.
