PILGRIM STREET ATTRACTIVE

Robert Tappan and William Patterson Design Houses for Cord Meyer Development

A drive through the Cord Meyer side of Forest Hills is a delight to the eye and a most comfortable experience. Well-kept lawns and gardens and attractive homes are pleasing to see, and the streets are in such excellent condition that the drive is a most satisfactory one.

The new houses on Pilgrim Street, six of them, built by the Cord Meyer Development Co. after designs by Robert Tappan, are constructed of lamme brick and have slate roofs. Each house has a garage and the plots, 50 by 100 feet, are beautifully planted and seeded by G. Hinrichs. The houses have six, seven or eight rooms and one or two bathrooms. The downstairs is finished in hard chestnut and the floors are oak. The second floor is finished in white enamel with oak floors. The kitchens are equipped in the most modern way, and the houses will be heated by steam and there are Ruud hot-water heaters. In one house draperies are shown, which have been selected by Mrs. Catherine Hadley, interior decorator, Burns Street.

Only one of the houses is left on the market. The purchasers up to date have been Professor G. Rowland Collins, of New York University; Henry O'Dell, with the George A. Fuller Co.; Professor Gadsby, of Columbia, and his wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Gadsby, Ernest Arnold, with the Bankers' Trust Co., and W. E. Evans.

The other side of Pilgrim Street will be developed with houses similar to these.

At the intersection of Pilgrim and 51st Streets the same company is constructing eight houses designed by William Patterson. There is a lovely harmony in the design and construction of these houses, and yet enough difference to make the group most distinctive. The houses have six or seven rooms and one or two bathrooms. The architect has used great care in planning for furniture and the living conditions. All hardwood interior finish is used. Each house will have a garage.

On Meteor Street the same company is building three Cape Cod cottages, all designed by Robert Tappan. These will have five or six rooms and one bathroom. Also each one will have a garage.

The house at 266 Livingston Street has been bought by Anthony Cantro.

FIGHT HIGHER COMMUTATION RATES

Commuters residing in Forest Hills who do not wish to pay the Long Island Railroad $17 a year more for their commutation tickets, and a corresponding 20 per cent increase on 50-trip family and school tickets, should aid in fighting the proposed increase. The most effective way to do this is to support the Association of Long Island Commuters, which has employed counsel to oppose the increase at hearings before the Transit and Public Service Commission, now in progress.

You are asked to join the Association of Long Island Commuters and pay the nominal dues of one dollar.

Mail your name and address, with a dollar bill or check, to H. A. Gilbert, treasurer, 105 Park Avenue, Amityville, L. I.

A CHURCH CANVASS

ONE day this summer a little four-year-old, who was walking with her visiting grandfather, pointed to a certain house and said, "That is where Mr. So-and-So lives. He is a preacher, and so he works only on Sundays." The little girl, of course, had no appreciation of the many things a minister is expected to do or the amount of reading and study he must find time to do in order to keep up with the best thought of the day.

There are five churches in Forest Hills representing as many different points of view, theologically, and several different kinds of church organization. The population of Forest Hills and the adjoining territory has probably doubled this summer. Each of the new residents ought to be given the opportunity to affiliate with one of these churches. In order to be sure that every one has such an opportunity, would it not be well to have a church canvass of the entire community? All of the churches could co-operate on a house-to-house call, to gain information about church inclination of the people, and when that information has been turned over to the church for which a preference has been expressed, then the pastor of that particular church could call and extend the invitation. Any one who has affiliation with other churches in New York, or who does not care for any church, is at liberty to so express himself, and no harm is done.

Such a canvass has been taken in other places. The minister and large committees of each church would find much helpful work to do, and the churches would be strengthened by the new life. Even the tiny four-year-old might see that the minister is busy every day.

Publication Days of the BULLETIN

The next issue of the BULLETIN will be published on Oct. 4, and the paper will appear thereafter fortnightly. News items should reach the editor not later than Tuesday of publication week.

WILLIAM PATTON BOYD

The community was shocked to hear of the automobile accident which occurred on Aug. 8, near Hazleton, Pa., causing the passing on of William Patton Boyd, at the Hazleton State Hospital, on the evening of Aug. 14. Services were conducted in Wilkes-Barre Aug. 16, by the Rev. Paul Heath, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of that city.

Mr. Boyd was a son of Mrs. Anna C. Boyd and a brother of Mrs. Lester G. Hornby, 7 Greenway Terraces. His boyhood was spent in Seattle. He graduated from Harvard University, with honors, in 1912. While in college, he played with the lacrosse varsity team, which won the championship of the United States, was a member of the basketball team and engaged in other athletics. During the war he enlisted in the aviation corps and was assigned as flying instructor at Marsh Field. At the time of his passing on, he was manager of the Wales Adding Machine Co., of Wilkes-Barre.

The officers and all the employees of the company expressed in many and fitting ways, their appreciation of his ability, his splendid character and his just management of the plant, as well as their tender sympathy for his mother and sister. The same sincere sympathy is felt by the neighbors and friends of Forest Hills.

SUPERB MATCHES PLAYED

Review of Tennis in General and Something of Helen Wills in Particular.

The New York Times, of Sept. 8, in commenting on the position of William T. Tilden, 2, in the tennis world, says: "Tilden has raised his game to such heights that he has left Johnston and all of the rest of the tennis world behind. The champion occupies Olympus alone, unrivaled not only by players of the present day, but, in the general opinion of tennis experts, by those of any other time as well. How great a player Tilden is may never be known, for there is no one capable of making him show it." This opinion of the Times has also been expressed by many American and foreign tennis experts since the Men's National Singles Championships were played at the West Side Tennis Club, Aug. 25 to Sept. 2. Jack Wright, of the Canadian Davis Cup Team, Vincent Richards, 1924 Olympic champion and W. M. Johnston, national champion of 1915 and 1919, all were defeated by him in these matches. After the last match with Johnston, Tilden is quoted as saying: "If Billy Johnston had won the championship today, he would have beaten me on the best day I ever saw."

In the East-West Matches, held at the West Side Tennis Club, Sept. 6, Vincent Richards, Olympic champion of 1924, defeated W. M. Johnston erstwhile national champion.

Helen Wills, 18-year-old student of the University of California, was the outstanding figure of the many interesting ones in the Women's National Championship Matches held Aug. 11 to 16, at the West Side Club. She defeated Mary K. Browne, former champion (now making herself famous in golf), and Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, champion for many years. Not only is she 1923 and 1924 national champion, but also Olympic champion of this year. With Mrs. G. W. Wightman, former champion, she won the Olympic and national doubles and at Boston, with Vincent Richards, she won the national mixed doubles, defeating Mrs. Mallory and Tilden.

Helen Wills is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Wills, of Berkeley, Calif., and she is now a sophomore in the University of California, for that college opened the year on Aug. 18. In the University, she is specializing in art and is making an exceptionally fine academic record, receiving last year almost all A's with a sprinkling of B's. Helen is so happy that she helps her fraternity (Kappa Kappa Gamma), win the scholarship cup as well as the tennis cup of the inter-sorority contests of the university. She has played tennis at the Berkeley Club since she was a little girl, and she finds time to play every day one hour, if it does not rain. This academic and tennis record means that no time is wasted and that when her day's schedule is made, she carries it out with singleness of purpose and with concentration. It gives one great satisfaction to know that in the year 1924, the perfectly normal and natural American girl, 18-year-old Helen Wills, is the national and Olympic champion of women tennis players.

Attracted by these various matches in tennis, the galleries of which are famous for being the best behaved of those who witness any sport, 70,000 people came to Forest Hills—56,000 to see the Men's Nationals, 9,000 for the Women's Nationals and 5,000 for the East-West Matches. The village is the debtor of the United States Lawn Tennis Association and the West Side Tennis Club, for the very desirable publicity which tennis brings to Forest Hills.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS RE-OPEN

Public Schools 3 and 101 re-opened last Monday, as did all the public schools of New York. Although the opening of the new public school building of Kew Gardens will temporarily accommodate many boys and girls from Forest Hills, who live near the Turnpike, still the conditions in the Forest Hills schools are greatly congested. There will be many pupils on part time in Public School 3, and two classes will use the auditorium and one class will be on the platform. Public School 101 is very crowded, also.

THE ECKMANS' NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Eckman have rented their house, 10 Greenway Terraces, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Altschul, who have been living at the Inn for a year. After extensive remodeling of the old Club House, Metropolitan Avenue at the head of Ascan Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Eckman and children will move there on Sept. 25. The new home, with tennis court and bowling alley, will give the children opportunity for all-around physical development.

RAPID TRANSIT COMMITTEE REPORTS

The Queensboro Rapid Transit Committee, of which Judge Richard S. Newcombe and George C. Meyer, are vice chairmen, has presented to the public a very complete report of the engineers' committee. The object of the transit committee is: "To secure the consideration to which the Borough of Queens is justly entitled in the matter of constructing additional rapid transit lines; and to co-ordinate all existing agencies to that end."

The engineers' committee is composed of John C. Brack-enridge, J. V. Davies, William J. Russell and Oscar Erlandson. The sections of the report which are of particular interest to residents of this part of Queens follow:

Present and Future Needs.

Our committee has considered the question at issue from two viewpoints: First, immediate requirements; and second, future needs.

Any transit system to be of adequate benefit to the borough shall provide trunk line subways, with express and local service to the business sections of Manhattan; should be as free from curves as practicable; should afford direct connection with some north and south system on the Island of Manhattan; should afford facilities for the greatest number of residents possible, and be constructed with a view to the least expenditure of capital consistent with good engineering practice.

The committee first recommends the immediate construction of a four-track subway with two tracks for local and two tracks for express service eastward from the Queensboro Bridge Plaza along the Queens Boulevard to Hillside Avenue, along Hillside Avenue to Braddock Avenue and thence along Braddock Avenue to the City Line. At the Bridge Plaza two of the tracks should connect with those of the B. M. T. system, utilizing the two existing tunnels of that company and the two tracks under 60th and 59th Streets to 59th Street and Seventh Avenue, to provide through service from Queens to the very desirable distributing area offered by the B. M. T. Broadway Subway in Manhattan. The remaining two tracks should be diverted to the southerly side of the Bridge, pass under the East River by two additional tubes to be constructed and under 59th Street to a similar junction with the B. M. T. tracks now dead ending at 59th Street and Seventh Avenue—thus giving a direct four-track subway from the easterly limits of Queens to and through Manhattan.

The Queens Boulevard route will afford a direct line to uptown Manhattan, and the Metropolitan Avenue route the most direct line to downtown Manhattan. Those desiring to go uptown could use the Queens Boulevard line, and those desiring to go downtown the Metropolitan Avenue line, to reach their destinations without the necessity of a transfer to the North and South lines in Manhattan with consequent confusion and congestion. The committee is not in favor of any plan that contemplates as a principal feature the bringing into Manhattan of traffic from Queens at right angles with the North and South lines in Manhattan and requiring a transfer to these lines.

Mrs. and Miss Bliss will rejoin Mr. Bliss at the Inn some time this month.

Robert Norton, a former guest of the Inn, was a recent visitor, renewing old acquaintances. Miss Jessie MacBride is now stopping at the Inn.

Miss Estelle Johnson spent a delightful two months' vacation in the White Mountains and is now residing again at the Inn.

Among those arriving from Cuba recently was Charles Plummer, who has rejoined Mrs. Plummer and their little daughter, Ruth. Later on, they expect to reside permanently in Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Reed have left for a two weeks' motor trip through the southern part of Pennsylvania.

Alfred Smith, Jr., son of Governor Smith, was a guest of Vincent Richards at the Inn during the tennis matches.

Mrs. R. Jacobs, and daughter, Helen, of Berkeley, Calif., are among those staying at the Inn.

Miss Adele M. Shaw has returned from a summer abroad.

MR. AND MRS. BUCKLEY ENTERTAIN

The Forest Hills friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Buckley are glad to know that the Buckleys remember their former neighbors. The Buckleys lived at the Inn while they were building their beautiful house on Markwood Road a number of years ago. Later they sold their house to Dr. Philip G. Cole and now divide their time between their two estates in Oneonta, N. Y., and Pasadena, Calif.

Early in August the Buckleys met their old neighbors of Markwood Road, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Eckman, at the Otesaga Hotel in Cooperstown, near Oneonta. Upon learning that a number of Forest Hills children were at Camp Fenimore, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley invited all of them to spend a day at Cathedral Farms, the Buckley home, near Oneonta. On Tuesday, Aug. 5, the picnic was held and a wonderful time enjoyed. In addition to Alice, Grace and Murray Eckman, the party included Mary Jane and Ticker Miller and Kathleen Copp. The children visited the barns where Mr. Buckley raises the finest of Guernsey cattle and had a glorious time sliding down the hay. The lovely flower gardens and rows of vegetables were examined, but most of all the children appreciated the raspberry bushes where they could help themselves to all the luscious fruit they wanted.

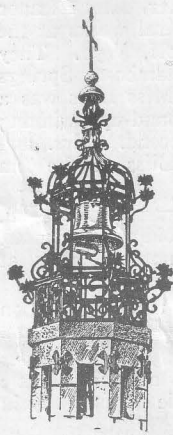

A delicious luncheon was served and there was a surprise birthday cake with nine candles, for Grace Eckman, whose birthday it happened to be. After luncheon and a rest in the hammocks on the spacious Buckley porch, the party visited the cow pastures, the old swimming hole and other points of interest. The beautiful views of the surrounding hills and the adjoining Oneonta Golf Club were thoroughly enjoyed. The party then drove back to Cooperstown, tired and happy.

The Buckley latch string, at Pasadena in the winter and at Oneonta in the summer, is always out to the Forest Hills friends.

GARDENS KINDERGARTEN AND PRIMARY SCHOOL

The school will open its third year on Monday, Sept. 15, at 9 a. m., under the direction of Mrs. Louise Hanson, assisted by two experienced teachers. It meets at St. Luke's Guild Hall, Greenway South. It is a private school specializing in the care and development of young children between the ages of three and six, with competent and experienced teachers and a carefully planned curriculum, meeting all requirements of judicious mothers. Tel. Blvd. 10251 or Blvd. 8041.

CHURCH-IN-THE-GARDENS

The Minister of the Church, Rev. C. E. Silcox, returned from his vacation last week and conducted the service last Sunday morning.

Next Sunday, Sept. 14, the service will be especially planned for those who are returning to, or for the first time entering, college. The Minister's theme will be, "Youth and Independence."

On Sept. 21, the Minister will exchange pulpits with the Rev. Arthur Maland Ellis, of the Union Congregational Church, Richmond Hill, who leaves this fall for his new charge at Newtonville, Mass.

On Sept. 28, there will be a general rally of the church when the Minister will consider some of the work which ought to be attempted and achieved by the church during the coming year. A corporate meeting of the church will probably be held on the following Wednesday, Oct. 1, to take under advisement some of these problems.

The date for the opening of the Church School will be sent in good time to all families in the parish.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

The services during the month of September will be Holy Communion, 8 a. m.; service and sermon, 11 a. m. The Church School will open on Sept. 21 at 9:30 a. m. On Tuesdays and Thursdays there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.

Regular meetings of the Guilds will begin this month, in preparation for the busy season planned. Additional Guilds are being organized to meet the various needs and opportunities. Confirmation classes will be organized early in October in preparation for the Bishop's visitation in December. The Vestry will meet on Sept. 29.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Zollinger, of Kew Gardens, the parish has received some very beautiful altar linens and an exquisitely carved ivory crucifix for the chapel. The latter is about two hundred years old and was secured after much search abroad on the part of the donors.

The former portable chapel has been removed to St. Alban's, where it continues its good use in furnishing a home for the new St. Alban's parish. Vines have been planted about the concrete foundations of the old chapel to make it more attractive and until such time as the permanent rectory shall be erected there.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Rev. Albert Sheppard, of the Presbyterian Church, announces as the subjects of his sermons during the remaining Sundays of September, at the 11 o'clock service; Sept. 14, "The Might of God's Followers"; Sept. 21, "The Authority of God's Son"; Sept. 28, "The Finality of God's Influence."

The Sabbath School resumed sessions last Sunday. The school is held every Sunday morning, promptly at 10 o'clock. All parents are urged to see to it that the children are in attendance regularly, so as not to interfere with their record.
